FOUR COAL MINERS killed, twenty wounded, including women and members of the State police, in the Colorado coal strike. The National Guard is sent and the Governor declares martial law.

The richest country in the world should find some better way of settling strikes than shooting coal miners or shooting State police.

Compulsory arbitration is difficult, but not impossible. It works successfully in some other countries.

President Coolidge talked with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, about soft coal labor troubles in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio. Labor men charge that railroads are united "to depress prices of coal for fuel purposes."

Government might in certain cases affecting public welfare fix prices of the product and the labor that produces it.

There was no hesitation about fixing the wheat prices during the war, a fixing process that cost the farmers about $2 on every bushel that they might have got and didn't get on every bushel.

The much discussed "companionate" marriage of a young man of twenty with the eighteen-year-old daughter of Mr. Haldeman Julius is not as new as it seemed. After marriage each will live at home to solve problems of housekeeping, while the bride continues her work in high school and then in college, and the young man continues studying at the University of Kansas.

If the marriage doesn't turn out to be perfect, the plan is to arrange for a divorce.

That is looking farther ahead than young people generally care to look. Life, marriage and other things may not be perfect, but the young think, hope and believe that they are.

And THINKING, HOPING AND BELIEVING gradually build up what is worth while in life.

The Du Pont company went on a $10 dividend basis yesterday. Stockholders got their regular dividends on the $10 basis, amounting to $6,654,045, and as an extra $11,312,146 dividend on General Motors stock, owned by Du Pont.

This emphasizes the dominating position of General Motors Company in the automobile world.

LAW SAYS: 'TO THE CHAIR'

HER PLEA FOR LIFE REJECTED

Ruth Snyder's appeal for a reopening of her case, on the ground she should have been given a separate trial for the murder of her husband for which she and Henry Judd Gray were doomed to die in the electric chair, has been rejected by the New York State Court of Appeals.

'ETERNAL TRIANGLE' IS BLAMED FOR SLAYING

Fall River, Nov. 22.—A child and the "eternal triangle" led to the "cold-blooded murder of Theodore R. Gibbons," declared District Attorney William C. Crossley today in his opening to the jury at the trial of 23-year-old Mrs. Gertrude F. Gibbons for the murder of her husband.

Spectators—mostly women—who were able to squirm into the Superior Court room through thronged corridors heard the prosecutor lay bare the State's case against the young widow, whose deep-set brown eyes were riveted on the district attorney as he spoke.

Gibbons and his wife, whom he had married when she was only 16, quarrelled, separated and continued quarreling over their child of

BRIBE PLOT LAID TO BIG OIL MAN

Washington, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Charging intent to bribe and intimidate the Fall-Sinclair oil jury, the government today obtained from the District of Columbia Supreme Court an order compelling Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and four of their associates to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court.

At the same time, at the suggestion of Justice Siddons, the district attorney agreed to file a separate contempt petition against Juror Edward J. Kidwell, who was accused of talking too freely during the oil trial and whose activities played a part in the resultant dismissal of the trial jury.

Justice Siddons himself handed down the contempt ruling, which was based on activities of the Burns agents in keeping the jury under

Charge Mexican Misstatement

[illegible] statement issued [illegible] November 16, the Mexican for[illegible] [illegible] through [illegible] in Washington, [illegible] that the self-same documents, now being published by the Hearst newspapers, were offered for sale for $25,000 to the Mexican consulate in Los Angeles on August 24 last.

The [illegible] described these documents as forgeries and claimed that, without attempting to discover the purport of the documents, the purchase offer had been refused.

This statement issued by the Mexican government is a deliberate falsehood and can be proved to be such.

On the date mentioned—August 24, 1927—these original documents were in the possession of Hearst executives in New York city.

As a matter of fact, these documents had been in the possession of the Hearst newspapers since June last!

The fact that these documents were in New York—and not in Los Angeles—on August 24 was known to William Randolph Hearst personally and to not fewer than seven of his executives.

The Mexican government's claims that the documents are not authentic will be effectively disposed of before the American completes this series of articles,

Tomorrow the American will reveal how the Mexican government interfered in the internal affairs of England and Mexico's efforts to promote bolshevism.

RUTH AND JUDD DOOMED TO CHAIR AS HIGHEST COURT DENIES APPEAL

(Copyright, 1927, by the Boston Evening American and the New York American.)

New York, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray must die in the electric chair.

Their appeal for a new trial has failed.

Their last legal recourse to avoid the death penalty has been exhausted. The decision of the Court of Appeals against them was given out today.

The court's decision was a two-line statement affirming the convictions and rejecting every point on which the motion for a new trial was based.

The only hope remaining to Mrs. Snyder and to Gray is a plea to Governor Alfred E. Smith for executive clemency. It is expected the Governor will be asked to commute the sentences to life imprisonment.

If that fails they probably will not live to see New Year's Day.

DOCTOR DIES AS GIRLS COMPLAIN OF HIS ACTS

Providence, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.).—A short time before Dr. George R. Price, 43, a chiropractor, was scheduled to appear at police headquarters to be confronted with several girl patients, who had complained concerning his alleged conduct in his consultation rooms, he was found in great pain on his bed by his mother at their Vermont home. He died a few minutes later.

Pending an autopsy, police were working on two theories—that he was given poison by some person who feared they were to be involved in the charges or that he took his own life rather than appear before the group.

Several days ago, according to police, complaints were filed against Dr. Price but he was released without any charges being filed.

BRITISH FLIER OFF ON NEW ZEALAND FLIGHT

San Francisco, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Captain Frederick A. Giles, 30, British flier, took off at 7:24 a. m. today in a second attempt to fly to Honolulu on the first leg of a projected flight to New Zealand.

The plane splashed water and mud along the runway getting into the air. Profiting by the previous experience, Giles made the take-off with ease and his plane, weighing more than 5,000 pounds and loaded with 390 gallons of gasoline, gained altitude easily.

Field officials said the flier got off the runway in 20 seconds. After clearing the field he struck out over San Francisco Bay at an altitude of about 200 feet. Captain Giles' farewell was:

"You will hear from me in a day or so."

He borrowed a handful of cigarettes and stuffed them into his pocket just before climbing into the plane.

The delayed flight project got under way once more with fair weather prospects at the starting end.

The plane passed Land's End, westernmost point of San Francisco, at 7:30 a. m. and struck out to sea

WITNESS SAYS REMUS SHOT WITH LEFT HAND

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Cincinnati Nov. 22.—Whether George Remus shot and killed his wife, Imogene, with his right hand or his left hand became a still more important point today in the trial of Remus for murder.

Charles Stevens, chauffeur of the "death taxi" in which Mrs. Remus rode to her doom in Eden Park, had testified that Remus "reached into his right-hand pocket just before the fatal shot was fired."

Today William Smith, a negro plasterer and eye witness to the tragedy, testified under cross-examination that Remus held the gun in his left hand.

"The left hand?" asked Attorney Charles H. Elston of the defence.

"Yes, sir."

Smith said he saw Remus put the gun in his pocket after the shooting and walk calmly away. He said he was only a short distance away and he "was sure glad that man got out

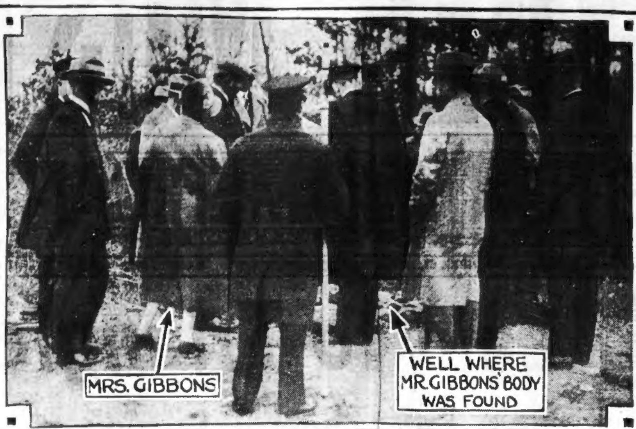
Wife on Trial for Her Life ∾ Goes With Jury to View Well ∾ Where Her Husband Was Slain

COOLLY FACES ORDEAL
Mrs Gertrude F. Gibbons as she coolly watches the trial for her life at Fall River on a charge of murdering her husband, Theodore R. Gibbons.



MRS. GIBBONS
WELL WHERE MR. GIBBONS' BODY WAS FOUND

JURORS AND DEFENDANT AT GRUESOME DEATH SPOT
The unusual picture of a murder trial defendant at the scene of her alleged crime was made when Mrs. Gibbons accompanied the jury to the well in which her husband's body was found. She is the first woman in 13 years to face trial in Bristol county on a murder charge and she occupies the same cell the last woman defendant—Mrs. Mabel Scudder—used in 1914.

tender years, the prosecutor declared.

GIBBONS FEARED FOR LIFE.

Mrs. Gibbons—and the steady gaze of the defendant never wavered as he spoke—assumed friendly relations with another man, said the prosecutor.

Certain things seemed to show, he added, that Gibbons feared for his life or his safety. And, the prosecutor went on, Gibbons was on his way to his wife's house to see his child on the last day he is known to have been alive.

Then, before calling his first witness to the stand, the district attorney announced the government would produce witnesses to show the defendant was familiar with the farm where Gibbons' body was found in a well a month after he disappeared.

Mrs. Gibbons' sedan, in which she is alleged to have ridden on frequent occasions with her paramour, Antone da Silvia, will figure prominently in the trial, Dist. Atty. Crossley indicated.

TO SHOW GIBBONS' LETTERS.

Other exhibits will be letters written by Gibbons to his wife, showing, the prosecutor stated, his love for his child and his desire to obtain custody.

"It is a painful duty to try a woman," said the prosecutor. "But if, at the end of the testimony, the evidence is such as I represent and you believe it to be true, I am going to ask you to bring in a verdict regardless of the sex of the defendant.

"This couple quarreled over their child and another man. That other man was indicted with this defendant, but he has been committed to the hospital for the insane at Bridgewater because it was decided by doctors that he was not a fit subject to stand trial.

"The relations of this man and Mrs. Gibbons prior to the murder were so unusually intimate that it becomes my duty to tell you, through witnesses, of that relationship.

"Mrs. Gibbons, it will be shown, drove her own automobile, a sedan, and witnesses will tell you that she drove about constantly with the other man at her side, even though her husband remonstrated with her.

"Witnesses will be produced to show that she on one occasion tried to gain entrance to her husband's home and Gibbons had the windows nailed and a dog on guard because, apparently, he feared something.

"The last time he was seen alive, as far as the State can learn, was on April 23, 1927. On that day he went to his mother's in Pottersville, returned home and then started out to see his child.

FIRST WITNESS CALLED.

"Mrs. Gibbons had absolute knowledge of the farm in East Swansea, where the body of her husband was found in a well on May 22, 1927. This we will try to prove by witnesses, some of whom will testify that she at one time intended to purchase that farm.

"The government investigatars also found certain tools and clothing in the defendant's automobile about which you may hear testimony during this trial. Letters written by Theodore Gibbons to his wife will be produced, and these tend to show that he threatened to make trouble unless his child was brought to him."

The first witness was Dr. Frederick R. Barnes, medical examiner, who performed the autopsy on Gibbons' body; Dr. Blanchette, former medical examiner, working with him.

KILLED BY BLOW ON HEAD.

Death was caused by a blunt instrument in the opinion of the witness. Under cross-examination he admitted that the fractured skull could have been caused by an automobile.

"We found the skull fractured and felt that death was due to pressure on his brain by hemorrhage from the fracture," he said. "The fracture was caused by a blow on the head, but we did not form an opinion as to the kind of instrument used."

Under questioning by District Attorney Crossley, he said a stick of wood, if heavy enough, might have been the weapon used. More likely it was an iron pipe, he said. Possibly it was a hammer, but in that case a hammer with a peculiarly shaped head.

Dr Barnes said if Gibbons was knocked down by an automobile he would have expected to find more marks on the body. Atty. Silvia then brought out that there were other bruises besides that on the head.

Rudolph Boulay, owner of the farm, testified he went to the well for a drink, was surprised to find the cover on, a stone on top of it and a pair of shoes beside it, and later discovered the body.

There was no moon on the night of April 23-24, Richard C. Brigham, official weather man for this district, testified.

RUTH SNYDER AND JUDD GRAY MUST DIE IN CHAIR

izing a joint trial of two or more persons accused of the same crime is constitutional, the Court of Appeals declared. The plea that it was an invasion of her constitutional rights was Mrs. Snyder's principal reliance.

Gray could not raise this plea since his lawyers, Samuel L. Miller and William M. Miller, joined District Attorney Richard S. Newcomb in asking for a joint trial.

Nevertheless the constitutional question was the one to which the Court gave the deepest consideration.

The prompt action of the Court on the Snyder-Gray appeal proved a surprise to defense counsel.

They had not expected a decision for at least another two or four weeks. Only the quick elimination of the constitutional question, to which the Court gave close scrutiny, hastened the decision.

Mrs. Snyder and Gray Blamed Each Other

New York, Nov. 22.—The crime for which Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray must answer with their lives was the murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, magazine art editor, in the early hours of March 20 last.

Following a party at the home of friends, during which Mrs. Snyder had constantly urged liquor on her husband, the couple returned to the pleasant bungalow into which Gray already had let himself.

While Snyder was falling asleep Mrs Snyder and Gray were drinking in an adjoining room, waiting the moment to strike. Snyder was beaten over the head with a window weight and strangled with wire. Here the stories of the two differ. Each says the other struck the blow that killed.

Gray then bound Mrs. Snyder, trying to give the murder the semblance of a robbery. Lorraine, 9 year-old daughter of the Snyders, found her father's body the next day.

From the first the police were suspicious. Discovery of Gray's name in her diary confounded Mrs. Snyder. After hours of grilling, she broke down and implicated Gray. Gray had come from Syracuse at night to do the slaying, and had slipped back there. He was arrested and at first was jaunty. On the train he confessed that he had been Mrs. Snyder's suitor. Then it was learned Snyder was heavily insured an indemnity clause making the total reach $95,000.

The two were locked up in Queens County jail, charged with murder. Their love changed to hatred. Mrs. Snyder sought a separate trial. On April 11, Justice Townsend Scudder denied her motion. On April 18 trial of the two jointly started. The trial attracted many notables. The pair were found guilty and sentenced to death. Their appeal was before the court of appeals October 24.

WOMAN TO FACE TRIAL FOR POISONING MOTHER

Tonbridge, Kent, Eng., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. Margaret Bowman Delvigne, accused of giving her mother, Mrs. Margaret Waite, poison to end her sufferings, was committed today for trial. The case arose shortly after the acquittal of a father who killed his young daughter to spare her further suffering from disease. The poison was given to Mrs. Waite by Mrs. Delvigne after the mother had undergone an operation for cancer which doctors decided would not save her.

of there. I stayed perfectly still till he got away."

Remus laughed with the spectators over this remark.

The indictment against Remus charges he killed Mrs. Remus with his right hand.

Attorney Carl Bassler of the State said there was no danger of a ruling that the indictment is faulty.

Former Judge Edward T. Dixon, attorney for Mrs. Remus in her suit for divorce, was the first witness called today.

Mrs. Remus was on her way to Dixon's office on the morning of October 6, when Remus followed her taxi into Eden Park and killed her.

Dixon testified he saw Mrs. Remus in his office at 9 o'clock on the night before the murder.

"When did you see her again?" asked Assistant Prosecutor Walter K. Sibbald.

"Next morning, October 6, in the hospital," was the reply. "She was dying. I reached the hospital about 9 o'clock and stayed there about two hours."

In an attempt to show that Remus had prepared no defence against Mrs. Remus' fight for divorce.

The court upheld defence contention that a record of the divorce proceedings would be the best evidence in that connection.

Giles Has Enough Food to Last Him Three Weeks

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—Captain Giles' food supply for his 2,400-mile hop to Honolulu included four sandwiches, a pint of milk, 19 cans of concentrated United States Army emergency rations, sufficient to sustain life for three weeks.

Captain Giles' plane is powered with a 220-horsepower Wright Radial Motor. It has a cruising radius of 4,300 miles.

The pilot, seated in an open cockpit, is unprotected from the elements, but spurned to wear helmet, goggles or flying suit, saying he had never used them and would not start now.

A protest against the action of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston in refusing to install street lights in Medway, signed by 93 residents of that town was today received by the Public Utilities Commission. HOPS OFF FOR NEW ZEALAND

Hatless, without goggles or helmet and dressed only in a light business suit, Captain Giles donned only a life belt as added trappings for the 2,400-mile flight. He carried no radio no life raft, no parachute and no sextant, being unable to use the navigation instrument.

Thus equipped, he trusted a good bit to luck, ability to guess the amount of his drift and the time-honored method of dead reckoning to fly over a trackless waste of water which already has claimed seven fliers who attempted the feat.

SEEK FOUR MEN IN ATTACK ON WOMAN

Turners Falls, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The police today were hunting for four men charged by Mrs. Harry Shaw of Greenfield with having attacked her on the road to Montague.

Mrs. Shaw said that her car was overtaken by another automobile containing four men and that one of them jumped on her runing board and took the wheel fro mher. He drove into a side road, where she was attacked, she said. Three of the men evidently had been drinking, Mrs. Shaw said. The fourth man helped her to escape after she had been choked and scratched.

SLAYER UNDER HEAVY GUARD IN HOSPITAL

Under heavy guard at Boston City Hospital, Alesandro Diotaliev, forty, was today awaiting recovery from his injuries to be arraigned in court on the charge of having murdered Vincenze Lombardi, East Boston contractor.

Shot through the heart Lombardi expired on the way to the hospital, while his two sons, Dominic, thirteen, and Gus, fifteen, disarmed Diotaliev and beat him about the head with the gun butt.

According to the police Diotaliev, who had purchased a house from Lombardi, sent word that he wished to speak with him. Mrs. Lombardi urged her two sons to accompany their father, and they did so. Diotaliev is alleged to have drawn an automatic and fired a bullet into Lombardi's heart.

Immediately after the shot was fired the two youths leaped on Diotaliev and after taking the gun away from him beat him so severely that his nose was broken and his face and head cut.

A pathetic feature of the shooting was the part played by Anna Lombardi, twelve-year-old daughter of the victim. Looking from a window of the Lombardi house, she saw her father staggering across the street towards home. The girl ran to the street and reached him just as Lombardi collapsed.

Sobbing hysterically, the child kneeled and taking her father's head in her arms, kissed him and stroked his face, while Lombardi's life blood bathed her in crimson.

"Bambino, I am shot in the heart," the man whispered in Italian in a final output of strength, and then lapsed into unconsciousness.

COMPANIONATE COUPLE TO LOVE AND STUDY

Girard, Kan., Nov. 22.—How the modern marriage problem is to be solved by a companionate marriage is explained by Josephine Haldeman-Julius and Aubrey Clay Roselle who were married today innstead of Thanksgiving Day to avoid photographers.

The plan was advocated by Judge Ben Lindsay, noted Denver jurist. Here is what they say.

He: "My main reason favoring companionate marriage is that it places sex relationship on an honest and wholesome basis. I am convinced that very few healthy young men remain ascetics throughout their entire college life.

"It took me a long time to win Josephine. I have been hoping ever since we started to school together, almost four years, that some time I would be able to marry her. I gained a sort of advantage over Josephine's many other suitors when we became engaged over a year ago. Even then we were not convinced that we were absolutely suited for each other, so I thought a year's travel would help us to decide.

"Early this Spring I left Girard in my hiking clothes. I travelled through the East and part of Canada. In New York City I shipped out as a seaman on the tramp steamship Argosy. I spent almost three months in various European ports. When I returned to Girard there was no doubt in my mind, but what Josephine and I could make a real success in marriage. As I am a student at the University of Kansas and have a part time job to help pay my way through college, I could not assume the financial responsibilities of a home for two.

"I think I have waited long enough already. A companionate

FEAR THUGS AT CHELSEA POLLS

Charging that ex-Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley, his opponent, is "importing New York thugs and inhabitants of the underworld," Mayor John J. Whalen ordered out extra police today as the polls opened at noon for the Chelsea primaries.

The Mayor also declared he had stationed officers at the entrances to Chelsea on all sides to stop all cars bearing New York license plates and question the occupants.

According to Mayor Whalen, the former Mayor has been in New York for the last ten months, and during the past few days Chelsea has been "flooded with New York cars."

Nearly one-third of the registered vote of 12,000 was cast in the first two hours. In Precinct 1 of Ward 5, 800 out of 1,900 registered votes were cast, or 42 per cent. In Precinct 1 of Ward 3, 40 per cent of the vote was cast.

The majority of the early balloters were women.

CALLES FAILS TO TALK BY PHONE TO CANADA'S HEAD

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Elaborate arrangements for long-distance telephone conversation between President Calles of Mexico and Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, collapsed because of the absence of Willingdon.

Over 3,500 miles of wire came the message that President Calles wished to speak to the Governor-General. The reply went back that Viscount Willingdon was away from the city.

COMPANIONATE COUPLE TELL HOW AND WHY

marriage is the happy solution to this problem."

She: "We are getting married because we think it is the thing to do. Other people do it. Why not we?

"It seems almost too beautiful to be true, that we shall be free to enjoy each other completely and yet not have to give up school and the careers that we both have planned.

"I plan to keep my own name, Josephine Haldeman-Julius, while I am in school studying for the theatre, and in it. But after I really settle down to keeping house, as I want after a while to do, I shall probably use Aubrey's name, Roselle. Both 'Aub' and I realize that we are doing what lots of young people have done, fall in love rather early, and get married. The difference is that most fathers and mothers think you must turn your whole life upside down just because you are married, and our fathers and mothers want us to be really happy and develop all that we feel is best in us."

Payson Smith Assails Companionate Marriage

"Companionate marriages," and clergy who sanction them, find no favor in the eyes of Massachusetts chief education official; nor does he approve of wedlock in a balloon or airplane.

Speaking at the annual women's day luncheon, of the Boston Baptist Ministers' Conference in Chipman Hall, Tremont Temple, Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education, criticized severely ministers officiating at such ceremonies.

Mr. Smith's remarks were aimed particularly at the wedding of Josephine Haldeman-Julius, 18-year-old daughter of a Girard, Kan. publisher, and Aubrey C. Roselle, 20-year-old University of Kansas, sophomore. The couple are marrying with the understanding that a divorce will separate them in 1932, if they desire it.

"It has taken generations of suffering to learn something of the fundamental laws of life, and thousands of years of experience have established basic laws of successful and happy living," Commissioner Smith said. "There are spiritual and moral laws which must not be broken. They cannot be broken without danger to one's welfare. There are physical laws, fundamental laws of health, the unchangeable law of thrift."

A minister who helps evade these laws is retarding acceptance of them, he said.

"Flaming Hair Girl" of Chicago Active in China

Chicago, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The "girl with the flaming red hair," Mrs. Rayna Raphaelson Prohme, word of whose death at Moscow has reached here, was said to have been one of the most sensational figures in the Chinese revolution.

The daughter of Joseph Simmons, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, Mrs. Prohme left the home of her wealthy parents five years ago to follow the varying fortunes of the revolution.

Educated at the University of Illinois, the University of Chicago and the University of California, she was termed by the members of her family "a brilliant woman of a philosophical turn of mind."

She was thirty-three when she died, apparently from a brain tumor. After her university days, Mrs. Prohme married Samson Raphaelson, author of the play, "Jazz Singer." They were divorced, and Mrs. Prohme then married a newspaperman of that name.

ish costumes. Miss Barry's legs were without benefit of hose. Suddenly——

"I protest against this dance in the name of the American Purity League. It is a barbaric, disgraceful exhibition."

The dancers stopped. The audience gasped. The shout had come from a man who had risen from his stall seat.

After his outburst of indignation the man left the theatre. He refused to give his name, but he told the management that the American Purity League was starting a world campaign against bare legs and had already established a branch in London. He added:

"Wherever there is a disgraceful exhibition of bare legs on a stage, someone will protest against it."

Mayflower Descendants' Dinner at the Hotel Somerset Is Fitting Celebration

THE KEEPER OF THE SOCIAL RECORDS IN THAT TOME DEVOTE D TO HIGH and mighty personages and their affairs will, without doubt, devote a considerable space and much gilded ink to appropriately describe the Mayflower dinner last evening at the Hotel Somerset. Mayflower Descendants, hundreds strong, came out for the commemoration celebration of the Signing of the Compact, 307 years ago. An[illegible] to fittingly glorify their celebration they gathered at the honor table such a scintillati[illegible]g galaxy of star guests as seldom is seen about one board.

TO THE MAYFLOWER DINNER, TO SIT IN HIGH ESTATE AND B[illegible] LION OF the evening, came His Excellency the British Ambassador, Sir Esm[illegible] Howard. And with him to a place on the dais came his wife, Lady Isabella Howard. [illegible]he First Lady of the Commonwealth, the handsome and much admired Mrs. Alvan Ful[illegible]ler, was another lion of the occasion, as was also Sir Thomas Tait, down from C[illegible]anada, and the Honorable Frederick H. Gillett, up from Washington.

FOR LIONS OF ONLY SLIGH[illegible] LESSER importance, The Descendants [illegible] ed ever so many luminaries of society, diploma[illegible], the service and the law to grace the honor table. Mr. Frederick H. Gillett had a place at the high ta[illegible]. Mrs. Curtis Guild was there, and so was Mr[illegible] Edith Nourse Rogers and Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer. [illegible] Colonels and generals, admirals, judges, consul [illegible]nerals and such made up a company of two score, th[illegible]eir uniforms and their decorations a far cry indee[illegible] from the drab homespun those signers wore when they drew up the famous Compact.

SPEECHES COLORFUL AS T[illegible]HE GOWNS OF the feminine guests, and of [illegible]it as scintillating as their jewels, flowed in roun[illegible]ded periods. The Society's governor, Frederic A. [illegible] Washburn, introduced Sir Thomas Tait and Senat[illegible] Gillett and then happily delegated to Mrs. Fuller the privilege of introducing Sir Esme. Mrs. Ful[illegible]ler's radiant good looks enormously became the h[illegible]andsome gown and the sparkling jewels she chose fo[illegible]r the occasion. The First Lady of the Commonwe[illegible]alth is one of its greatest ornaments.

IN STAGE DEBUT

Miss Katharine Chapman Warren is another society recruit to the drama. She made her Boston debut with the Repertory players in Ariadne.

HER GOWN WAS A SMART [illegible] AFFAIR DONE IN OMBRE ROSE, SHADING FROM PALE ROSE petal tint to bright geran[illegible]ium, and done in sequins. Mrs. Fuller possesses some gorgeous jewels and from her store she selected a s[illegible]trand or two of pearls and some diamond stars for her corsage. Lady Isabella Howard was in soft [illegible]ull black crepe, perfectly set off by the lustrous gleam of pearls, and Mrs. Curtis Guild was resplendent w[illegible]ith a gown of net and a marvellous dog collar of diamonds and pearls.

MRS. NATHANIEL THAYE[illegible]R'S GOWN WAS OF BLACK, SHOWING A SPARKLING MOTIF IN sequins and steel beads [illegible], and Mrs. Gillett was in black velvet, the lustrous depths beautifully in contrast to lustrous pearls. British Consul General Gray sat at the high table, and his girlish-appearing spouse, with her locks becom[illegible]ingly bobbed and her frock of leaf green, was at the same table with Mrs. Walter Merriam Pratt, very [illegible]smart in gold cloth; Mrs. Malvern Hill Barnum, in black velvet, and Mrs. Barrett Wendell, in black wi[illegible]th cut steel beads.

MRS. WILLIAM ENDIC[illegible]OTT, TALL AND HANDSOME IN BEADED CHIFFON, WAS AT ONE OF the tables just in fro[illegible]nt of the high table. She and Mr. Endicott were of a distinguished group. So were the Channing Coxes, Mrs. Cox in a striking gown of orchid velvet with several strands of pearls about her throat. Mrs. R[illegible]ichard Henry Dana's gown was brilliantly effective, with silver-gilt sequins against black crepe. She [illegible]was one of the guests about the T. Morris Murray table, which had as hostess the Murrays' lovely daugh[illegible]ter, Mrs. Ross T. Whistler.

MRS. GEORGE [illegible] DGE WAS THE STATELY DOWAGER, WITH HER DINNER GOWN OF JET black velvet and her dog collar and ornaments of pearls. She was at the same table with Miss Edith and Miss Caroline Tickno[illegible], both wearing dinner gowns of dark blue. Mr. and Mrs. William Dana Orcutt, with their son, Philip Or[illegible]cutt, were part of a very interesting group that also included the Misses Abby and Belle Hunt.

MISS BELLE HUNT[illegible]'S SILVER AND BLACK BROCADE TOOK LIFE AND COLOR FROM HER MARvelous jewels, [illegible] well as from the handsome brocade wrap she flung about her shoulders. Miss Abbey Hunt wore bl[illegible]ack lace and net with pearls and diamonds for ornaments. To diverge a moment, Mrs. Orcutt reaped a [illegible]most gratifying golden harvest, by her recent talks, for the Free Hospital for Women.

ONE OF LAST EVENING'S PRETTY DINNER PARTIES WAS tendered by Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hennegan of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel to Mr. John Landis of the same hostelry. Covers were laid for ten and among the guests were: Miss Barbara Walsh, Miss Catella Earle, Mr. Thomas Faye Walsh and Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Mahoney. Music and dancing following the repast.

'GODLESS' GIRL JOINS STRATON 'CURES'

New York, Nov. 22 (A. P.)—Styling herself a former "Godless" society girl of San Francisco, Mrs. Winfred Moseley, disciple of [illegible] Utley, was enlisted today [illegible] the forces of the Rev. John [illegible] Straton after giving her first [illegible] instruction in divine healing at Calvary Baptist Church.

Mrs. Moseley said that in [illegible] youth she enjoyed such Godless pastimes as card playing, dancing, tennis and boating.

Then she hurt her hip. Physicians attempted for eleven years to cure her, she said, but only when she renewed her faith in the Bible did her injury disappear.

"I myself am a miracle of God's grace," she said.

Elaborating on what may be expected from faith healing, she said:

"It melts away goiters, cancers, tumors. God heals cancer today. We're not afraid to proclaim it in the hospitals. I've seen many cases cured. It would be a good thing to have a certificate from the doctor for each one, telling what is wrong, and when the Son of God heals the [illegible] will be a written proof. Print don't lie.

"They say the age of miracles is past. It's not past. Jesus is A-L-I-V-E."

"Praise the Lord," murmured Dr. Straton.

Dr. Straton held his healing classes last night in private departing from his usual custom of anointing with oil in the full view of the congregation. Only his twelve "patients" were admitted to the healing service.

LIFE SAVED BY PHONE CALL

Randolph, Nov. 22.—A faint cry for help, received in the local telephone exchange by Miss Alice Keith an operator, today saved the life of Herman Shaw, fifty, of South Main street.

Stricken by a shock, Shaw laid for hours on the floor of the second floor apartment that he occupies alone, eventually getting enough strength to lift off the telephone receiver and cry for aid.

Miss Keith notified Harold L. Bailey, driver in the fire house nearby and with John R. Luddington he raised a ladder to the second floor. Entering a window, the men found Shaw unconscious on the floor, the telephone beside him. He was taken to the Brockton Hospital, where his condition is said to be serious.

37 HURT AS HEARSE AND MOURNERS FALL IN RIVER

Madrid, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.).—Thirty-seven mourners were injured, seven of them seriously, today when a bridge over the Jalon River in Asturias collapsed under the weight of the funeral cortege of Jose Iglesias, miners' leader, who was recently murdered by radicals. More than one hundred followers and the hearse fell into the river.

LILLIENDAHL DEFENSE SEES HOPE IN NEW CLEWS

Hammonton, N. J. [illegible] 22 (I.N.S.)—Weeks of qu[illegible] [illegible]estigation by private detectives [illegible]ired by defence today culminated with a prophecy of hope for Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, jointly accused with Willis Beach, a neighbor, of conspiring to murder her husband, 75-year-old Dr. William Lilliendahl. With the trial less than a week distant, defence attorneys today had filed detainers to hold two negroes now in the Morristown, Pa., jail. The unexpected action bears out the prediction that the defence would build their case around Mrs. Lilliendahl's story that two things killed her husband while she and Dr. Lilliendahl were motoring along a swamp road near here.

"Weren't We Fools?" Sings Fanny Brice, Who Has no Man

New York, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.)—"Weren't we fools?" is the song that Fanny Brice is singing on Broadway, and friends of the comedienne see in it an allusion to Fanny's divorce from Nicky Arnstein in Chicago recently. Fanny is living through memories of happier domestic days.

When an audience clamored for her to sing her old favorite song "Mon Homme," she cried with a catch in her voice:

"He ain't my man no more, boys."

GUSTIN HELD IN ROBBERY CASE IN $5000 BOND

Confession matched itself against a victim's identification today in Municipal Court, with the result that Judge Zottoli declined jurisdiction in the case of Joseph Barry and Stephen Wallace (also known as "Steve Gustin") and held them in $5,000 for the Grand Jury on a robbery charge.

Joseph Nelson and George Shamey, whom police declare confessed the holdup of an automobile station in Belvedere, of which holdup Barry and Wallace also are accused, were also held for the Grand Jury but their bail was fixed at $10,000.

On the stand, Frank Franklin, manager of the auto station, despite the confession testified to by Special Officers Philip Dodge and John Willard, declared that he had identified Wallace as the man who held a gun against him and Barry as the man who took his money, and he still thought they were the two men.

DANGER DAYS!

Germs pick out the weak ones

WHY is it? W[illegible]hy is it that tomorrow the deadly germs of some [illegible] disease may attack your neighbor's child, but leave your [illegible] boys and girls alone? Why is it that they may attack your boys and girls, and leave your neighbor's child alone? It isn't "luck." It isn't "chance."

For your answer, look a[illegible]t nature. The gales of a storm will wreck the frail frame house that's poorly built, while the solid stone one stands. The waves of the sea won't shatter seaworthy ships, nor will fire consume the structure of iron, concrete and steel. It's the weak houses, the frail ships — and the bodies lacking in reserve energy — which fall prey to the perils which threaten them.

Healthy bodies are safe bodies

Health comes from sunshine, fresh air, sound sleep, vigorous exercise, and above all — nourishing food. The foods your children eat are the building materials of which their growing bodies are made. Hea[illegible]lthy bodies cannot be made of poor materials. Active, growing bodies need more than plenty of food! There are Danger Days ahead. They need the right kind of food. It must contain the vital elements for making strong bones, sound teeth, firm flesh, red blood, and worlds of energy for tomorrow. Who knows — tomorrow may be the Danger Day! If any single vital element is missing from the food of boys and girls, no amount of fresh air, exercise or sleep can supply it. What are these vital elements? Where can they be found? Every mother owes it to her children to know.

Whole wheat builds resistance

When nature conceived the grain of wheat, she created a spark of life. She crowded into the whole wheat berry the very food elements essential to life and growth. In Ralston, the whole wheat cereal, children get the things which bodies must have to fortify them against the Danger Days to come — for none of the vital elements of whole wheat have been removed in making Ralston.

Ralston will give your youngsters the calcium and phosphorus for building sturdy bones and hard white teeth — the proteins that will make firm solid flesh — the iron that makes red-blooded boys and girls—carbohydrates for energy—the bran that insures normal elimination—and the vitamins of life and growth.

Let Danger Days come — the Ralston boys and girls will be ready for them!

Use the Danger Days Coupon

We have a most important new booklet for you, that every mother should read. It tells all about Danger Days — how you can recognize them — how you can fortify your boys and girls against them. It is 32 pages fully illustrated. Send for it. It may mean warding off many Danger Days!

The coupon will bring your complimentary copy, and also a unique novelty for the children called the "Magic Blackboard."

EVEREADY PRESTONE

Trade-mark
(ETHYLENE GLYCOL)
For the preparation of anti-freeze solution under
U. S. Patent 1213368

A new discovery! There is nothing else like it

At last, science has discovered a new, better winter protection against frozen motors—Eveready Prestone. Eveready Prestone will protect your motor all winter—one supply of it! No replacements or replenishments. No worry about lost strength. No overheating. This is the perfect anti-freeze. Something entirely new. A distinct, different chemical compound—one that meets all the specifications of the U.S. Bureau of Standards for an ideal anti-freeze.

No glycerine

Eveready Prestone contains no glycerine. It will never become "gummy," never overheat a motor. It never leaves deposits. It flows as freely as water.

No alcohol

Eveready Prestone contains no alcohol. It will not boil off. There is no danger of a sudden freeze-up resulting from a weakened solution. Eveready Prestone is odorless and safe. It will not harm the cooling system or the finish of your car.

Most economical to use, although highest in first cost

The quality of the product makes the price of Eveready Prestone $5 a gallon. But Eveready Prestone is the most economical anti-freeze to buy because it never deteriorates or loses strength. You simply mix Eveready Prestone and water, depending on the temperature range for which protection is desired. One filling lasts you all winter. It is the safest kind of long-time investment in protection and security.

Eveready Prestone is a product for motorists who believe that an investment in a perfect anti-freeze is good economy. It will commend itself to owners and drivers who understand that such an investment is infinitely less expensive than cracked cylinder heads, burned-out bearings, blistered paint, rotted hose connections or the dozen other costly mishaps that may follow the use of a cheap preparation.

"The perfect anti-freeze" means exactly that. National Carbon Company, Inc., manufacturers of Eveready Flashlights and Eveready Radio Batteries, guarantee this product without qualification.

Eveready Prestone is not an untried product. It has been produced in limited quantities for several years. Fleet operators and car manufacturers, who were quick to appreciate the merits of this product, immediately absorbed the entire available supply, and it has their unqualified endorsement. Increased production now makes Eveready Prestone available to everyone.

Get Eveready Prestone today

There is no longer any necessity for makeshift winter motor protection. Don't delay about this important duty. Settle the anti-freeze problem once and for all by starting right away with Eveready Prestone. Your garage, automotive supply or hardware dealer can take care of your requirements.

BOY SULTAN TO TAKE OVER HIS DAD'S HAREM

Paris, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.).—Seventeen-year-old Mulai Mohammed, the new Sultan of Morocco, has decided to pick his harem from the women who formerly composed the harem of his father, the late Mulai Yusef, said a dispatch from Rabat today.

The Palace, at the present time, houses the harems of three former Sultans. The women are mostly negresses or half-breeds, who range in years from infants to women of ninety.

Before the French protectorate was established in Morocco it was the custom of the Moroccan sultans to pick any pretty girl that struck their fancy, or to buy girls for the harem from regular slave dealers, but, since the protectorate was set up, slave dealing has been prohibited by the French government and there are no more dealers. However, the Sultan may still buy girls from parents who are willing to sell them.

The present Sultan, despite his youth, is a "progressive." He is opposed to the purchase of new women for his harem, and, in fact, is inclined to allow the harem to die out entirely.

Special sums are set aside by the Moroccan government for the support of the harem. Women of the late Sultan's harem, who are not selected for the new Sultan's harem, will be supported out of this money.

FIRES DAD'S MAN

Mahammed Ben Mulai Yuseff, new 17-year-old Sultan of Morocco, dismissed his father's old friend and master of the palace for failing to obey a summons.

THANKSGIVING FOR 5,000 IN HUB HOTELS

The turkey that gobbled his stuff today will be stuffed tomorrow and, in the natural sequence of related events, will be gobbled Thursday.

Thanksgiving dinner, despair and delight of maitre de hotels, will be served to 5,000 persons in Boston hotels day after tomorrow. And nearly 50 per cent of that number will be folks from out of town.

The average New Englander wants his Thanksgiving dinner at home, where he can take a drum stick in both hands without being kicked under the table by his wife.

The local folk who will be served at the hotels Thursday are mostly the apartment dwellers of small suites where the task of preparing and serving a full course Turkey repast is larger than the space available to do it in.

IN HUB HOTELS.

Boston hotels every Thanksgiving Day serve hundreds of persons from far-away cities. Naturally it is not the cuisine that attracts them, although the New England Thanksgiving dinner is nowhere equalled. Rather it is because none of the New England colleges and schools afford an extended vacation about this time and a family gathering necessitates the parents traveling to the students.

Boston hotels, therefore are the logical place to dine for these mothers and fathers of sons and daughters attending local institutions of learning.

MINCE PIE 'N EVERYTHING.

The Copley-Plaza will serve approximately 1,000 Thanksgiving dinners, according to Louis, the maitre de hotel. It will be the regular repast of turkey and fixin's. The turk', the plum pudding and the mince pie are ever present on the festive day menu.

Kenmore has 500 reservations already, the Ritz-Carlton about an equal number. The Westminster and Touraine each will serve from 500 to 600 persons and the Lenox and Brunswick between them about 1,000.

The demand for private dining rooms for family gatherings is practically exhausted at all the larger hotels.

Turkeys for Thanksgiving Plentiful and Cheaper

An ample supply of turkeys—freshly killed, cold storage, fancy birds and imported specimens from South America, Austria and even far Russia—with the popular-priced fresh-killed youngsters a few cents a pound cheaper than last year, is the story of the Thanksgiving market as the special commission on the necessaries of life view it.

The fresh killed birds are being quoted at from 50 cents to 55 cents, with special prices for fancy birds and lower prices for the cold storage article.

"Chickens at 33 to 40 cents are slightly lower than last year, beef is about 8 cents a pound higher, while fresh pork is about 5 cents a pound lower," the report discloses.

Sweet potatoes, from 2 to 3 cents a pound, are as low in price as Maine potatoes, which are about 5 cents a peck below last year's price. Vegetables, like turnips and squash, at 4 cents a pound, and onions at 5 cents a pound are unchanged.

An Army Bride

TO LIVE IN HUB

The former Miriam M. Roberts is a happy bride today following her marriage to Staff Sergeant Neal J. O'Brien of the U. S. Coast Artillery. For four years she was courted by mail while O'Brien was stationed in Honolulu. They will reside in Winthrop.

TAX CUTS FOR CORPORATIONS

Washington, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Reduction in the tax on corporation incomes from 13½ to 11½ per cent. was approved today by the House Ways and Means Committee. The vote was 22 to 1.

The committee refused by a 12 to 11 vote to repeal entirely the sales tax on automobiles, leaving final decision to future sessions. A motion to repeal the tax on admissions under $3 was similarly left undecided, as was a proposal to increase to 25 per cent. the present levy on tickets to prizefights.

POSTPONE AIRPORT LIGHTING EXHIBIT

Owing to the uncertainty of the weather, it was announced today that the lighting demonstration planned to be given tonight at the Boston Airport with the new "Self-Regenerating Motor" had been postponed to a date to be announced later.

It was planned to hook up the motor with a series of floodlights, furnishing illumination for the departure of the airmail plane, thereby demonstrating how the airport would look if properly lighted.

POLICE AIDED RUM-RUNNERS, WITNESS SAYS

Salem, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Salisbury Beach policemen piloted rum vessels, loaded liquor on trucks and even directed traffic away from the landing parties, William J. West, a Department of Justice special investigator, testified today at the Salisbury Beach rum conspiracy trial in court here.

West testified that Warren S. Frothingham, a former policeman and a defendant in the present case, told him and Henry L. Shine another Department of Justice investigator, that Frothingham piloted three rum vessels "right past the Plum Island Coast Guard station" into Salisbury during the Fall of 1924.

Frothingham also admitted, West said, to assisting in the unloading of the rum ships and receiving $135 for his labor.

West told of an interview he had with Howard S. George, another former policeman and also a defendant, on Aug. 28, 1924. Then, West said, George told him that on several occasions during the previous Fall he had stood guard and kept automobiles away from the landing place while liquor was being loaded onto trucks.

"George said he had been ordered to such duty by Harold Congdon, another defendant, who was then serving as police chief. George told West he received $25 for this traffic duty.

The government investigator also testified that George admitted "the beach was wide open. Raids were made and ntohing found and he thought everyone was warned before the raids were made."

COOLIDGE WOULD AID COAL WAR "PEACE PARLEY"

Washington, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.)—The Coolidge administration doesn't intend to become actively involved in the soft coal strike. It is willing to sponsor a peace conference between Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia operators and miners only if both sides signify beforehand that such negotiations would be likely to be successful. It doesn't want to assume any blame if a meeting is called and then fails. An outline of the government's position has been given to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who was a member of the labor delegation that asked the President to summon a peace conference to end the strike of 150,000 miners.

SAYS SPIRIT TOLD HIM TO THREATEN RICH GIRL

Los Angeles, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—A story of a spirit vision which prompted him to pen letters to Miss Mary McCormick of Pasadena, Cal., a member of the wealthy harvester manufacturing family, demanding payment of $5,000 on threat of deth, resulted in an investigation of the sanity of the confessed letter writer, William D. Benjamin, forty.

The writer declared he had had a vision of the mother of Miss McCormick. The vision, he said, told him to write the letters threatening death to Miss McCormick and her two brothers if the money were not paid.

LAWRENCE MAN CASTS HIS VOTE FOR 62ND YEAR

Lawrence, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—When Addison Bolton Lathrop, 90, entered the city polls today at the regular primaries for municipal offices, it was the 62nd consecutive year that he has cast his ballot. Coming here from New Hampshire in 1863 to become superintendent of a paper mill, he has not neglected to rgister his choice in a city, state or national caucus since.

AUTO WRECKS MILK WAGON

More than 150 quarts of milk went to ruin and two Chelsea youths went into a police cell today as a result of a speeding coupe crashing into a milk wagon in Broadway, Revere, near the boulevard.

The car, alleged to have been stolen from Samuel Sandler of Chestnut street, Chelsea, speeded away after the crash, but was halted in Chelsea square by Patrolman John S. O'Neill, who had just received the number of the car.

Joseph A. Arnold of Parker street and George A. Hudson of Suffolk street, who were in the car, were arrested.

The milk wagon wrecked had left by the driver in front of a lunch room while he ate breakfast. The horse was uninjured.

New York, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.).—A red, oval tin box, labelled "gunpowder," discovered at the north end of the northbound platform of the B. M. T. subway, created a panic among patrons at an early hour today.

Police declared the lack of wires or machinery for setting off the powder made it harmless unless a train passed over it.

It Was a Bargain ---BUT
By Lawrence J. Lesley
THE other day, a lady, who upon the recommendation of a neighbor had come to Lesley's to purchase a dress for her daughter, was quite surprised to find upon our racks an exact duplicate of the dress she had on.
"HOW odd!"—she remarked. "I purchased this dress at a recent sale at ....s and thought I was getting an unusual bargain at $15.75, yet here is the very same dress at $12.95."
THE Lesley plan of merchandising was explained to her. By judicious buying for cash—by eliminating every possible overhead expense—by rapid cash turnover of stock, Lesley's is able to offer at all times—garments at $12.95 that are considered "bargains" at $15.75 to $16.50 in other stores. That is why Lesley's is rapidly becoming the favorite apparel center with thousands of New England women. Make it a point to visit this conveniently located store when you are next in Boston.

BRIDGE by RADIO
Tonight!
Do you know how to test your hand for an informatory double — how to answer it if made by your partner — how to show your partner you like his lead — when to lead trumps and when to use them for ruffing? All these questions answered in the Radio Bridge Game to be broadcast from WEEI . . . . 10:00-10:30 P. M.
Bid and play this Radio Hand yourself, before broadcasting time. Then you can learn, from the experts, just where you need to strengthen your game. These are the players and their cards:

RADIO IS BETTER WITH BATTERY POWER

Count the cost

Buy "B" power with the same demand for service you expect of other commodities and you'll buy batteries every time. Radio engineers declare battery power is the most economical and the most satisfactory source of "B" power yet developed. It operates smoothly, silently—and when the "B" battery is an Eveready Layerbilt the replacements are few and far between.

Eveready Layerbilt "B" Battery No. 486 is made for modern radio sets. It will operate any receiver at normal voltages and will do it better and more economically than any other source of "B" power. Built by a special, patented process that piles layer on layer of active material, the Layerbilt is, without any "ifs" or "buts," the longest-lasting "B" battery available. It is the product of the National Carbon Company's research laboratory—the largest electro-chemical battery laboratory in the world.

RADIO DIALOG

by

C. WILLIAM RADOS

After hearing many parts of programs last night, we put down the Shepard Six, WNAC; Roxy and His Gang, WBZ; Gypsies, and Family Party, WEEI, as the best. Many distant programs were also available.

Joe Lopez, Ben Hadfield and Eddie Dunham, three of the Shepard Six, started with the "Heidelberg Song." Then Joe Lopez came on with a single that turned in a home run. He sang "The Man That Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." In his pleasant voice, Joe related the adventures of a millionaire.

Mary Garden, just off the steamer from Europe, removed her coat, threw the luggage into the corner and started to sing. We believe she was too far from the "mike" as her words were indistinct and the singing not strong enough. To check, we tuned to WEAF, pure and strong, and caught Mary singing, "Somewhere a Voice," pretty, but Kathryn Meisle presented a better program Sunday night for the Kent hour, WEEI.

Outside broadcasts were robust and plenty. Some code was available and so was a little static. We heard New York, WYNC, WABC, WPCH, WJZ, WEAF; Cleveland, WTAM; Schenectady, WGY; Newark, WOR; Providence, WEAN; Hartford, WTIC; Atlantic City, WPG; Milwaukee, WTMJ; Pittsburgh, KDKA, and Buffalo, WMAK.

At times WGY, KDKA, WEAF and WPG roared in. Most of the evening WEAF was better than the locals.

We used a Kellogg, seven-tube, No. 510 radio.

The House-Current set is here!

The New
ATWATER KENT
A. C. SET
with house-current Power Supply

Model E Radio Speaker. New method of cone suspension, found in no other speaker, makes certain faithful reproduction of the entire range of musical tones. An extraordinary Speaker—hear it! $24

We introduce today a new and more wonderful radio set.

Atwater Kent engineering has now developed a receiver which makes complete use of the new tubes that draw their electric power wholly from the house lighting circuit.

This set is made in two parts. One is the part which you operate—the One Dial Receiver in compact form. The other is the part which you never need to touch—the Power Supply, which can be put beneath the table, or in a console—in any out of the way place.

Plug the cord into the lighting circuit, just as you would plug in an electric toaster. Snap the switch on the receiver, turn the One Dial, and forget everything except the perfect quality of reception—you can't forget that!

Here is genuine house-current radio. Here is convenience beyond your wildest hopes.

Here is tone, mellowed, made truer by the different kind of current that works its magic in those glowing tubes. Here is power—steady, unwavering, available at any moment, always—for music at any volume. Here is economy—for the power costs only a fraction of a cent an hour! Tomorrow's radio, here today!

Again Atwater Kent engineering triumphs in the downright goodness of these instruments. Again Atwater Kent precision manufacturing triumphs in giving the world flawless operation from your house current without an "if" or a "may be"—

And a price which brings genuine, unquestioned all-electric radio within everybody's reach.

This set may be installed in any approved console designed for Atwater Kent Radio.

By all means see and try this amazing development in radio—at an Atwater Kent dealer's—today.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, Trustee.

For further information regarding the Company and this issue of Bonds, reference is made to a letter dated November 21, 1927, from J. A. Campbell, Esq., President of The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned and from which the following is quoted:

THE COMPANY: "The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, organized in 1900, ranks as the third largest steel company in the United States, with an annual ingot capacity of over 3,000,000 tons. It is engaged in the manufacture and sale of a diversified line of products, comprising pig iron, billets, sheet bar, plates, sheets, bars, rods, nails, wire, tin plate, etc., and specializes in the manufacture of steel pipe, of which it is the second largest producer in the world.

It has two steel plants located in the Youngstown district, approximately midway between the principal consuming centers of the country. At Chicago it has a large steel plant, with finishing mills, a large merchant pig iron production and two of the finest harbors in that district. Its iron ore properties are situated in the Lake Superior region and its coal properties in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky. The Company also owns profitable zinc mines in Wisconsin, Kansas and Oklahoma.

In the past three years the Company has spent large sums on new plant and equipment and in 1926 made an important addition to its output by placing in operation two seamless tube mills in the Youngstown district and a large tinplate mill in the Chicago district. The Company has recently appropriated $12,000,000 for the construction of a by-product coke-oven plant for its South Chicago blast furnaces and a boiler and power station at its Campbell plant, Youngstown, which will result in very material savings to the Company. The plants of the Company are modern and represent the latest development of the industry. The Company owns about 600 acres in the Youngstown district and about 300 acres in the Chicago district, still unused, which provide ample sites for future growth. The management is in the hands of executives and directors, many of whom have been associated with the business since its inception.

PURPOSE: The purpose of the issue of these bonds is to refund, at a lower rate of interest, the Company's entire outstanding bonded debt, amounting to $64,422,500, and to reimburse the treasury of the Company for part of its expenditures for additions and improvements. The annual interest on the $75,000,000 new 5% bonds, of $3,750,000, will be less than the present annual interest on the $64,422,500 bonds to be retired.

Of the outstanding $64,422,500 bonds, $47,000,000 The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company Debenture Gold 6% Bonds, $4,982,500 The Steel and Tube Company of America General Mortgage Gold 6% Bonds and $9,348,000 The Brier Hill Steel Company First Mortgage Gold 5½% Bonds, will be called for redemption on January 1, 1928, and $2,840,000 Mark Manufacturing Company First Mortgage Serial Gold 6% Bonds will be called for redemption on June 1, 1928. The remaining $252,000 mature as follows: $128,000 on December 1, 1928, and $124,000 on December 1, 1929. Pending payment of the above issues at or before maturity an equal amount of cash will be deposited as will be provided in the First Mortgage.

SECURITY: The First Mortgage Sinking Fund Gold Bonds will be the direct obligation of The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and will be secured by its First Mortgage to Bankers Trust Company, New York, Trustee. The Bonds will be secured by a direct first mortgage on all of the fixed assets of the Company owned on November 1, 1927, as well as upon all additions, improvements and betterments thereto, and by the pledge of stocks and certain obligations of subsidiary companies (other than sales companies) then owned by the Company, as will be defined in the mortgage, none of which subsidiary companies are subject to any mortgage. The combined book value of the assets to be mortgaged and pledged, as of September 30, 1927, was over $121,000,000, of which over $97,000,000 represented fixed assets and over $24,000,000 represented stocks and obligations of said subsidiary companies. The First Mortgage will cover all the Company's present real estate, plants and mineral properties, except certain mineral leases which, by their terms cannot be assigned or pledged. The book value of the fixed assets is much below the intrinsic value as is shown by the fact that such assets of the companies now comprising The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and its subsidiary companies, were appraised in 1921 by independent experts at more than $73,000,000 in excess of the values at which such assets were carried upon the books. Any properties that may be acquired by the Company hereafter, with the proceeds of the reserved $75,000,000 Bonds as hereinafter specified, are also to become subject to the First Mortgage, and the Company will agree not to mortgage any property otherwise acquired without first subjecting the same to the prior lien of the First Mortgage. In case of the purchase of properties subject to a lien, an amount of First Mortgage Bonds equal to the amount of such lien shall be reserved for the eventual payment of such lien insofar as bonds are available.

The net tangible assets of the Company as shown by its books, as of September 30, 1927, adjusted to show the sale of the present issue of bonds and the application of the proceeds thereof, will be $200,957,944, of which $72,502,309 will be net current assets. The Company is not presently borrowing from its banks nor has it done so for a number of years.

EARNINGS: The annual earnings of the companies now comprising The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and its subsidiary companies, applicable to the payment of interest, after charges for depreciation and depletion for the five years ending December 31, 1926, have averaged $15,929,371, or more than 4.2 times the interest charges on the $75,000,000 First Mortgage Bonds now being issued. The Company's sales, depreciation charges, and the profits applicable to all interest, for each of said years, were as follows:

Year Ended Dec. 31	Net Sales	Net Earnings Before Depreciation, Interest and Federal Taxes	Depreciation and Depletion	Available for All Interest Before Federal Taxes
1922	$124,331,551.73	$11,270,974.35	$6,180,419.42	$ 5,090,554.93
1923	165,649,369.42	28,525,538.25	7,555,260.58	20,970,277.67
1924	121,456,369.83	21,461,893.86	8,715,638.31	12,746,255.55
1925	136,513,585.03	28,253,968.21	9,023,877.58	19,230,090.63
1926	152,508,502.78	30,776,312.79	9,166,632.19	21,609,680.60

Despite the decreased demand and lower prices for iron and steel products during the current year as compared with 1926, the statement of the Company for the first nine months of this year, after charging $7,844,091 for depreciation and depletion, shows net earnings of $9,735,000, available for bond interest, being at the rate of more than 3.4 times interest charges for nine months on the $75,000,000 First Mortgage Sinking Fund 5% Bonds.

Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co. have audited the books of the Company since 1909.

In the twenty-seven years during which the Company has been in existence, it has never failed to earn a substantial profit in every year with the single exception of the year 1921, in which abnormal conditions prevailed and there was a lack of demand for iron and steel products. The Company has outstanding $14,241,100 preferred stock paying 7% dividends, and 987,606 shares of no par value common stock, on which dividends at the rate of $5 per share per annum are now being paid. Dividends have been paid on the common stock of the Company uninterruptedly since 1906. The present market value of the shares of the Company is over $100,000,000.

THE BONDS: The First Mortgage will provide for the issuance of bonds in series to a total authorized amount not exceeding $175,000,000. Of this total authorized amount, $75,000,000 principal amount of bonds, Series "A", constitute the bonds presently sold to you; $25,000,000 additional bonds may be issued for any corporate purpose, and the remaining $75,000,000 of bonds are reserved to be issued to reimburse the Company for 75% of the amount of capital expenditures made after November 1, 1927, for the acquisition of new property or for betterments, improvements and additions to the mortgaged property or for advances to subsidiary companies to the extent of 75% of like expenditures made by subsidiary companies (provided in such cases that mortgage bonds of such companies for the full amount of such expenditures are subjected to the First Mortgage) or for 75% of the cost of stocks or obligations of other companies, but not more than 10% of the total amount of bonds outstanding under the First Mortgage may be issued for acquisition of stocks or obligations of other companies. None of the $75,000,000 reserved bonds shall be issued except for refunding purposes unless the net earnings (after payment of interest on current indebtedness other than indebtedness to be repaid out of the proceeds of bonds then to be issued) applicable to interest on funded debt of the Company (including subsidiary companies) and of any new properties to be acquired, for either the year preceding such issue, or the average of the last three years preceding such issue, have been at least one and one-half times the interest on the funded indebtedness of the Company and its subsidiary companies, including the new bonds to be issued.

The First Mortgage will provide that the Company will not pay dividends on its common stock (other than in stock) in excess of $5,000,000 in the aggregate, except out of earnings of the Company after January 1, 1927.

Bonds may be issued under the mortgage, par for par, upon or to provide for payment or retirement of any bonds theretofore issued, except for bonds retired by the sinking fund.

GENERAL: The bonds of each series other than Series "A" shall bear such rate of interest, shall mature at such time and be redeemable upon such terms and have such other provisions, subject to the limitations expressed in the mortgage, as may be determined by the Board of Directors at the time of the creation of each subsequent series and expressed in the bonds thereof.

Application will be made in due course to list the $75,000,000 Series "A" bonds on the New York Stock Exchange."

THE UNDERSIGNED WILL RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR THE ABOVE BONDS, SUBJECT TO ALLOTMENT, AT 101% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD ABOUT 4.95% TO MATURITY.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company Debenture Gold 6% Bonds, The Steel and Tube Company of America General Mortgage Gold 6% Bonds, and The Brier Hill Steel Company First Mortgage Gold 5½% Bonds, all of which are to be called for redemption on January 1, 1928, at 105% and accrued interest, and Mark Manufacturing Company First Mortgage Serial Gold 6% Bonds, which are to be called for redemption on June 1, 1928, at 102½% and accrued interest, will be accepted in payment for the new bonds on a 3¼% interest basis computed on the redemption prices to the redemption dates, provided notice of the amount of such bonds to be tendered in payment is given not less than five days prior to the date fixed for delivery of and payment for the new bonds.

The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice, to reject any application, to allot a smaller amount than applied for and to make allotments in their uncontrolled discretion.

The above bonds are offered if, when and as issued and received by the undersigned and subject to the approval of counsel. Temporary bonds or interim receipts will be delivered against payment in New York funds for bonds allotted, which temporary bonds or interim receipts will be exchangeable for definitive bonds when prepared.

'PANIC DAYS' ARE SEEN AS OF THE PAST

Magazine of Wall Street quotes D. R. Crissinger, former Governor of the Federal Reserve Board as saying, "Panics such as we had in 1893 and [illegible] are [illegible] possible and hardly [illegible]. We now have [illegible] system of [illegible] control that provides for an elastic expansion of currency and [illegible] of credit far beyond any demands that are likely to be made upon them."

Congressman Theodore E. Burton, author of many books, including [illegible] on economic crises, is also quoted. Congressman Burton says in part, "I regard business crises such as those of 1893 and 1907 as much less probable since the adoption of the Federal Reserve Act and also by reason of the better organization of business nowadays as contrasted with its condition 20 or 30 years ago."

David R. Forgan, vice-chairman of the National Bank of the Republic, Chicago agrees with us that the Presidential year should not be a disturbing factor in itself. He states "I see no reason [illegible] present prosperity [illegible] should [illegible] [illegible] year. Interesting is the declaration of Dr. A. von Weinberg [illegible] director of I G Farbenindustrie [illegible] the impression is erroneous [illegible] chemical front is being [illegible] in Europe against America and that German industry would never lend itself to such a [illegible]. The [illegible] has had its effect on chemical shares.

No particular effect has been traced, however, to the declaration of Dr. von Weinberg that a German syndicate will soon put on the market a synthetic rubber the equal of natural rubber and cheaper in cost of production. Industry appears to be waiting "to be shown." Note [illegible] Thomas A. Edison's quest includes [illegible] of Arnold Arboretum woods on which we have written extensively is not necessarily for a synthetic rubber, but for a substitute for the Para rubber tree.

A reader asks what E. F. Greene, [illegible] of Pacific Mills, [illegible] northern mills in his address before the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists. This address was delivered about a year ago. As we reported it at the time Mr. Greene said "The better quality of work in which skill and long experience are [illegible] factors, will be done in the North."

BRIBERY LAID TO SINCLAIR, BURNS AND 4

surveillance, as well as on remarks attributed to Kidwell.

BRIBERY IS ALLEGED.

In the case of Sinclair, it was charged by the district attorney that he induced Henry Mason Day and Sheldon Clark, his associates, who also were named in the contempt order, to hire the Burns men to shadow the jury. W. Sherman Burns and Charles L. Veitsch, of the Burns agency, also named, figured in other parts of the citation.

The objects sought by Sinclair, it was charged, were to spy upon the jurors, to bribe them, to intimidate and influence them and to do anything calculated to interfere with and impede them in the discharge of their duties.

William J. Burns and W. Sherman Burns were charged with procuring the making of a false affidavit purporting to show that a representative of the department of justice approached and had conversation with "Norman Glasscock," one of the jurors in the case.

Burns and his son, it was set forth, knowing the affidavit to be false and without truth and fact "had the affidavit submitted to the court, intending thereby to provide evidence, such as it was, that the United States of America, through one of its employes, had tampered with said juror, Glasscock."

CARRIED THE MONEY

It was also asserted the Burns operatives [illegible] carefully the [illegible] Juror John P. Kidwell [illegible] mortgages and other encumbrances upon his home. The operatives also investigated affairs of the brother or father of Juror Kidwell, reporting in writing that the brother's or father's place of business "was located on questionable premises and that racing sheets were found in the trash thrown out of said business," it was asserted.

Veitsch was accused of bringing to Washington $1,500, which he turned over to Charles C. Ruddy, di recting head of the Burns operatives, "for the purpose of financing the preliminary steps," of the jury spying.

William J. Burns, it was asserted, while not an officer of the Burns Agency, received moneys and other benefits from holding 47 shares of the 50 shares of the agency's capital stock owned by his wife.

While only these six men are named in the district attorney's petition, Gordon specifically requested that if upon the hearing of the case it appeared that other persons were concerned they would be made parties to the contempt proceedings.

JAIL TERM POSSIBLE.

In making his move in the case, Gordon [illegible] action of the grand jury.

The present phase of the case will be heard by the court and should the trial justice hold there had been a contempt of the court, he could impose sentences up to one year in prison.

Whether indictments are to be returned rests now with the Grand Jury. Should convictions be obtained on the contempt charge there is little likelihood that indictments would be pressed.

Juror Kidwell Sheldon Clark

Sinclair, Day and Clark are under specific charges of a conspiracy to influence the verdict of the jury, which was discharged after spending two weeks in hearing evidence in the conspiracy case against Albert B. Fall, former Interior Secretary, and Sinclair growing out of the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve in Wyoming.

Day is at liberty under $23,000 bond and Clark is out on $10,000. The warrant against Sinclair has been held in abeyance pending action by the Grand Jury or other process.

District Attorney Gordon informed Justice Siddons the contempt proceedings to be heard December [illegible] were entirely independent of the Grand Jury investigation. The term of the jury does not expire until January 3 and it may be that indictments will be held in abeyance until after the contempt trial.

SALLY'S SHOULDERS

by Beatrice Burton
Author of "The HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC–

The Story of a Clever Boston Girl and Her Temperamental Sister

READ THIS FIRST

SALLY JEROME, 20, is the mainstay of her family. Her father had deserted his wife and his children. Besides Sally there are the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, aged 21. Millie, the family beauty, is always losing jobs when her employers "get gay" with her.

Sally works at home in the mornings, for her mother is a semi-invalid. In the afternoons she works for MR. PEEVEY, an elderly eccentric, who does a small mail-order business in Chauncy street. TED SLOAN, who lives with his mother in the flat below the Jerome flat in Hemenway street, is a "dancing fool," and Sally has become very friendly with him. But when he tries to make love to her she pulls him up short. Sally sees a handsome man in the elevator. She learns that he is John Nye, with an office across the hall. Sally smashes a bottle of Mr. Peevey's milk in the corridor, and young Nye happens along and goes to buy another bottle. Ted proposes to Sally, but she promises her mother not to wed him. Sally tells Millie that Nye needs a stenographer. Mabel Wilmot gives a party at the Jerome flat. Sally's funds are nearly gone and she decides to appeal to her Aunt Emily.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER VIII.

WHENEVER Sally was in great trouble she went straight to her father's sister, Miss Emily Jerome.

Aunt Emily's house was a quaint old house far out on the Weston road. It had belonged in the Jerome family for more than 50 years.

Outside it was all weather beaten clapboards and [illegible] shutters. But within it was bright and clean with its [illegible] woodwork, its gay hooked rugs, its flowerpots and crisp [illegible] curtains.

Sally often said to herself that the inside of Aunt Emily's house must be very much the picture of Aunt Emily's soul—shining and white and cheery.

It always gave her a sense of peace and comfort somehow, to step from the bus, to turn in at the gate and start up the flagged walk to the door with its fanlight and its brass knocker.

[illegible] as [illegible].

"You [illegible]" and from behind the [illegible] door of the kitchen Aunt Emily's voice answered her familiar [illegible]

"[illegible]"

Then she came with a rush to greet her, and gave her a quick little pecking kiss on each cheek.

Everything that Aunt Emily did she did all of a sudden. Although she never would see 40 again, she moved about as quickly and lightly as Sally herself. She talked briskly. And when [illegible] her mind to do a thing she made it up in two minutes. [illegible] went ahead and did [illegible] with great speed [illegible] about things.

"Well [illegible]" [illegible] and her black eyes seemed to snap a welcome to her niece. "I was just [illegible] supper all by myself and I [illegible] do dislike to eat alone."

"Where are [illegible] and Mary?" asked Sally, following Aunt Emily out to the [illegible] and white kitchen.

[illegible] and Mary [illegible] were two sisters who had been "paying guests" in Aunt Emily's house for years. They were [illegible] school teachers of uncertain age.

"Oh, they've gone home for a visit before school opens," answered

Gangsters' Fear of Sudden Death Makes Them Very Fussy

Chicago, Nov. 22 (A.P.)—The gangsters, never sure what moment may be his last, takes elaborate precautions to prolong his life. Detectives familiar with gangland's ways pointed out some of these precautions today.

Gangsters never sit in an unknown barber's chair, for they live in fear of a razor in the hands of a disguised enemy.

A gangster never permits a hot towel to cover his face in a barber shop. He doesn't want his eyes covered, the detectives said.

Headquarters of Al Capone, gang leader, in a South Side hotel, are said to be almost impregnable. Capone's chair faces the door, so that he can see whatever is going on. When compelled to change his position, Capone still is protected, for the back of his chair rises above his head and is armored with steel.

KILL NO. 1 IN WAR ON THUGS

Chicago, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.)—Twelve hours after Chief of Detectives William O'Connor issued his drastic order to kill all gangsters, police riflemen brought down the first victim, Frank Herbert, chief lieutenant of Joe Saltis, master racketeer of the Chicago badlands.

Following an attempt on the life of Chief O'Connor by a gangster who pulled a gun in the chief's own office, the "war" command was issued.

Answering a call that two suspicious characters were lurking in an alley in a hoodlum neighborhood, Sergeant John Gibbons and his squad rushed to investigate.

The men were ordered to halt. Herbert reached for his waist, where a revolver was concealed.

"Get 'em, men, fire low," yelled Gibbons. Detective guns blazed and Herbert fell writhing with mortal wounds.

HEARING REVEALS GAS TAX DEMAND

2 OR 3 CENT GAS TAX WANTED

Unanimity of opinion in favor of a gasoline tax for Massachusetts, the only State outside of New York without such a levy, was expressed today at a hearing at the State House before the special commission on taxation.

The size of the tax and its effect on the present minimum $10 registration fee were points at issue.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin thought a 2-cent tax and a registration fee of $5 would net the State about the same revenue it is now getting. An additional cent might be added to the tax for distribution to cities and towns, giving those communities about [illegible] for highway purposes.

Representative Joseph Martin of Marblehead, sponsor for the gasoline tax bill vetoed by Governor Fuller at the last session of the Legislature, wanted a $3 registration with a tax of 2 cents a gallon.

Martin also favored an excise tax to circumvent the dodging of taxes.

FitzHenry Smith, for the Boston Chamber of Commerce, declared that while 40 per cent of the automobile registration of the State is in the Metropolitan District "Boston does not get a nickel for the building or maintenance of roads."

Goodwin suggested adding two questions on the application blanks which would have weight of [illegible] through statutory authority: "Where owned your car on April 1?" and "Where was your car on April 1?"

Goodwin said automobile registration blanks are honeycombed with fake addresses. He told of revoking 2,000 registrations, and when his inspectors went to the given addresses to pick up the plates they found graveyards, churches and morgues."

COURT TO UNTANGLE BABY CASE

Lawrence, Nov. 22.—Habeas corpus proceedings, to be sought in Supreme Court, is the next step in the "mixed-baby" tangle involving the babies of Mrs. Hallam Dow of Methuen and Mrs. Mitchell Karas of Ames street.

The plans were announced by Attorney [illegible], counsel for Mrs. Dow, as he left district court after charges of assault against [illegible]

"I intend to have the babies brought into court for final decision," he said, in discussing the next move.

"Mrs. Dow is thoroughly convinced that she is bringing up the wrong child."

Today's proceedings marked another chapter in the bitter feeling of the two families toward each other. Mrs. Dow testified to visiting the Karas house on invitation of Mrs. [illegible] Bresson, owner [illegible] Louis Karas and Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Karas in [illegible] she testified to assault by Louis after he had [illegible] hospital [illegible] in regard to the mixup question. Their request was denied, Judge Pierce ruling that the question of the alleged swap was not in line with the case in hearing.

OFFERS MUSICAL COMEDY CHANCES TO HUB GIRLS

Geertrude Hoffman, known to millions of theatregoers in this country and abroad, is in Boston recruiting for a new troupe which will be taken into the Gertrude Hoffman School with the objective of appearing in New York musical productions.

Miss Hoffman has made it known that she would like to have a troupe of girls to be known as the Boston Unit, which prompted the recruiting in Boston. Aspirants should be at the stage entrance of the Shubert Theatre any day this week between the hours of 12 and 1.

HARMONY AND COMEDY IN 'RANG TANG'

"Rang Tang," an all-darky musical show, starring Miller and Lyles, burst upon the stage of the Tremont last evening and made a vigorous obeisance to the great god Jazz.

In the pit before the first curtain Ford Dabney's [illegible] a [illegible] you for the [illegible] of Africa's burning sands and many other things to follow.

Somehow, amid the whirl of the dark [illegible] sonority of heavy barber shop [illegible] ds and the [illegible] of the saxophone two gentlemen of deep color [illegible] appropriated an airplane and flew for Darkest Africa.

The largest sparkling diamonds grown to pumpkin size was the quest. To return to Harlem cabarets as the flashiest spenders in town was [illegible] consideration.

That was the "story." Permeating every inch of it was rollicking humor, a [illegible] of dancing, a frenzy of [illegible] and high heaps of [illegible] harmony.

To [illegible] the contributors to [illegible] fun is well nigh impossible. From the two comic leads, Miller and Lyles, down to the last [illegible] saxophone in the back row everybody on stage plunged into the [illegible] at hand as if there were a [illegible] to celebrate.

Barnes and Mack, a pair of hefty but hearty dancing gals, drew rounds of applause, ditto Bryson and [illegible] a [illegible] masculine team, [illegible] singing was turned in by Daniel Haynes, a mighty basso, Evelyn Preer and Josephine Hall. And the two stars added their own inimitable [illegible] to make "Rang Tang" an [illegible] entertainment.

automobile manufacturers produced in October 221,292 cars. Of these General Motors sold 150,833, almost 70 per cent. of the total output.

Soon will appear the new Ford car, and then will come automobile production on a greater scale. Mr. Bernstein, who recently settled a law suit with Henry Ford, has had a long talk with Ford and saw the new car. He describes it as a "small Lincoln."

There are various ways of dealing with a jury in our democracy. High finance hires private detectives to trail each juror and report which one is "open to reason" or interested in an "automobile as long as a city block."

In Chicago, the simpler way is to warn the jury that convicting an accused man, important in underworld crime, means a bomb thrown in your window or a blackjack on your head.

Eight witnesses testified that they saw a certain individual kill a junkman who had refused to obey gang orders. One juror wanted to convict, but voted for acquittal when the eleven others warned him that to do so was to endanger his life and his family. The accused gangster having shown justice "where it got off" walked out of prison, "free and vindicated."

William C. Hoverter, just elected city treasurer of Reading, Pa., on the Socialist ticket, will not escape criticism by any "regular" politician. His job is worth $20,000 a year, and he accepts only $5,000, saying, "Where the average citizen finds it hard to make ends meet, an official should not get $20,000 a year."

That is no way to make Socialism popular with practical politicians.

The Italian King called Mussolini to power when the Fascisti marched on Rome, but has never adopted the Fascist salute. When people cheer him the King uses the regulation military salute, avoiding the Fascist salute, which requires the arm held out straight with great vigor.

The Italian King lives in fortunate safer days. Poor Louis the Sixteenth of France put the cockade of the Revolution in his hat, but even that didn't save the head under the hat.

The price of cotton went up violently as the estimate of the crop went down by 13,000,000 bales yesterday. The rising price is good news for the South and the whole country. But it is a pity that cotton men must depend on the boll weevil or a Mississippi flood for decent prices.

Coming Events

"My Maryland," an operetta with Civil War atmosphere, will come to the Shubert next Monday.

"Tenth Avenue," a big town melodrama, will move into the Hollis next Monday.

"Peggy Ann," a musical play featuring Helen Ford, will be the attraction at the Wilbur next week.

"In Abraham's Bosom," a Pulitzer Prize play with a New York cast, will take the stage at the Arlington next Monday.

"Red Dust," sponsored by Sigmund Romberg, will be seen at the Arlington on Monday, December 12. It is not a musical play.

STATION WEEI SEEKING OWN AIR CHANNEL

Because Boston has no exclusive radio channel, while other large cities have, and because such lack of facilities causes poor reception here, officials of Station WEEI, Edison Electric Illuminating Company plan to apply for an exclusive channel and for tenfold increase of power at a hearing before the Federal Radio Commission in Washington, Tuesday, November 29.

Station WEEI broadcasts on 365.6 meters. The persistent heterodyne whistle which has spoiled reception on this wave since November 1 is attributed to interference from Chicago broadcasters WEBH and WJJD. Edison officials will point out at the hearing that while Chicago has seven exclusive channels no channel has been given exclusively to Boston.

Sharing the wave channel with WEEI are three other broadcasters. Sharing time with Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores, are broadcasters WBIS, Boston, and KRLD, WRR, KFNF, WCAE, KUOM. Sharing the wave channel with WBZ, Hotel Statler, are seven other broadcasters.

About a month ago the Federal Radio Commission announced its intention to clear several channels from 600 to 1000 kilocycles for exclusive use by various cities. Many large cities received such channels, but Boston was overlooked.

Starting Wednesday night, portable broadcast station 1-XAG, property of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, will broadcast from different locations each night in an endeavor to discover a better location for a new WEEI transmitter in Metropolitan Boston.

The broadcasts will start after WEEI has stopped for the night, use Edison's present wave, and remain within the 15-mile radius of Boston.

Twenty skilled Edison laboratory electricians, under the direction of Prof. Edward L. Bowles of Technology, will check results in various parts of Greater Boston.

Those tests will continue about a week, it was announced.

Seaplane That May Encircle Globe for America

New York, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The Sun says today it has learned that the navy is secretly building a seaplane with a cruising radius of 3,000 miles or more, with which an attempt will be made to fly across the Pacific and possibly around the world early next year.

The plane was said to be nearing completion, its first test flight being scheduled to take place in about two weeks.

TREADWAY TELLS OF N. E. FLOOD CONTROL PROBLEM

Washington, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The flood problem in New England should be studied in a different way from that of the Mississippi Valley, Representative Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, today told the House Flood Control Committee.

"New England has different problems of controlling the high waters," he said, "and of course the same engineering methods applied to the Mississippi cannot be utilized." He asked the committee to visualize the New England destruction and situation.

DRESIER JOINS TOLSTOY'S DAUGHTER IN TRIBUTES

Moscow, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Accompanied by Alexandra Lvona, daughter of Leo Tolstoy, and scores of admirers of the Russian author, Theodore Dreiser, American author, today went to Yassavaya Poliana, where Tolstoy is buried, to pay homage on the 17th anniversary of his death.

A simple ceremony took place, consisting of the song "Everlasting Memory," sung by the peasants, and the hymn "No, He Died Not," by the village children.

CANADIAN PACIFIC PLANS TO RUN TRAINS IN WEEK

St. Albans, Vt., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The Canadian Pacific Railroad today reported to the State railroad information committee that it expects to have its line open from Montreal to Wells River early next week. The Rutland Railroad is operating night trains from Montreal to Boston and New Pork.

Work is progressing on the Central Vermont, although it could not be stated when connection would be made with the Wells River road at Montpelier.

NAVY BOARD IN FAVOR OF MORE NEW CRUISERS

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.
Editor of Universal Service.

Washington, Nov. 22.—If the President and Congress prefer the recommendations of the General Board of the American Navy to the desires of the Admiralty Board of the British Navy as a guide in "rounding out" the United States fleet, five new 10 000-ton cruisers will be laid down each year for the next five years.

That is to say, at the next session of Congress, in addition to the cruisers provided for at the last session, five more modern cruisers will be appropriated for and also six of the newest type of submarines.

Whether President Coolidge is yet willing to take the advice and counsel of the general board in this all important matter will not be known definitely until Congress receives his annual message next month. Work on that message is now going on.

REPORT NOT PUBLISHED.

The report of the general board has been sent to the White House. It has not yet been given to the public. Whether or not it will ever reach the public, nobody in the Navy Department seems to know.

Keeping this secret from the public is a departure from the custom of earlier years. It was the intention of Congress, when the law was passed which brought the general board into being, that its recommendations each year should be given the widest possible publicity.

To this extent the will of Congress and the purpose of the law would be thwarted should the report of the general board this year be suppressed much longer.

It is understood the board's recommendation for five new cruisers each year for the next five years is based upon the belief that the tactical needs of the fleet urgently require more auxiliary ships of the cruiser type. The cruiser is the type of vessel for universal service in peace and war.

OPPOSITION CERTAIN.

Members of the general board will tell you that, other factors being equal, the fleet most effectively supported by light cruisers will win the day.

It is true that the United States has a superiority of destroyers today, but that is only one element and that superiority vanishes when unsupported by a cruiser force sufficiently strong to demolish enemy opposition and blaze the way to a decisive destroyer attack on the enemy's capital ships.

Regardless of what the President recommends there will be strong opposition in both houses of Congress to adaption of the five-year program for light cruisers. This opposition will be led by League of Nations enthusiasts and their allies. These appear to think the Admiralty Board of the British navy is a better guide for Americans to follow in their naval plans than the general board of the American navy.

TINY VIOLA DANA TO STAR WITH SIX-FOOTER

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, Nov. 22.

IF VIOLA DANA, standing a scant four feet without her size one shoes, and Ralph Graves, six feet two, are a team that the public enjoys seeing together, we may expect them as the headliners in a series of Columbia comedy dramas.

Harry Cohn, not to be behind the procession in the matter of a team has signed them to co-star in "The Box Lunch." Harry was all for changing the title to "So This Is Love." I urged him to keep the original name of "The Box Lunch," and give the movie patrons a little credit for intelligence. Am I right or wrong?

Do you remember "The Strong Man," one of Harry Langdon's funniest comedies? Well, Frank Capra, the young man (I assume he is not old) who directed this and other Langdon comedies, will direct the Dana-Graves pictures.

While Mr. Cohn had the pen and ink handy he did some more signing. The scrap of paper gives George Seitz the title of director-general. Now that Columbia is growing up it has these important offices. After "The Blood Ship," Mr. Seitz deserves this recognition.

BORROWING GOES ON.

Universal is doing considerable borrowing for its newspaper story.

First, it persuaded First National to lend Lewis Stone, and now it has negotiated with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for Marcelina Day, with the result that the outstanding two characters in "Freedom of the Press" are borrowed players. Donald Keith has been given the juvenile lead and Robert Emmett O'Connor, who played Al so effectively in "The Old Soak" on the stage in New York, also has an important role. This is the story, you will remember, by Peter B. Kyne, and deals with the missionary work a newspaper does in reforming the underworld.

It is good to hear they are going to show the newspaper in a light other than an exponent of "yellow journalism." We have hopes that some day they will do right by the newspapers.

NEW LOVE TEAM.

If B. P. Schulberg has the prophetic sense some folk claim, Fay Wray and Gary Cooper are the great love team of 1928. Mr. Schulberg is just sure they are going to be another Vilma Banky-Ronald Colman. He is motivated by "The Legion of the Condemned," in which they appear as youthful lovers. Their next, "The Wolf Song," based on Harvey Ferguson's book, is also a love story.

One look at Olga Baclanova working in "The Man Who Laughs," at Universal, and I understand why there is talk of a Paramount that she may play opposite Emil Jannings in "The Patriot." She has fire, personality, and she knows how to put over a scene. I saw her as the Duchess with Stewart Holmes in "The Man Who Laughs" masquerading at the Southgate Fair as a peasant girl.

What a combination of German talent in "The Patriot!" Ernst Lubitsch is the director, Hans Kraly scenario writer, and Emil Jannings star—the same recipe that made so many of UFA's pictures popular.

SENATOR GOULD FAVORS HOOVER-MOSES TICKET

Portland, Me., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Senator Arthur R. Gould, here today en route to his home in Presque Isle, from a month's trip to California, expressed the belief that Secretary Herbert Hoover should be the Republican nominee for President, in the event Mr. Coolidge refuses to be a candidate.

Gould said there is a strong sentiment in the West for Mr. Hoover. Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire would be a wise choice for Vice-President and run with Mr. Hoover in the opinion of Mr. Gould.

APPEAL IS REFUSED IN $3,000,000 N. E. OIL SUIT

Washington, Nov. 22.—The Supreme Court has refused Ernest Wiltsee, the receivers of the Island Oil Marketing Corporation and other creditors of the New England Oil Corporation a review of the decision of the Court of Appeals which reversed a judgment ordering the receivers of the latter corporation to pay $3,000,000 to creditors.

Doles Jersey Justice Out to 121 in Space of 40 Minutes

Judge Michael J. Creed established a new record in traffic court today at the "expense" of 121 violators—expense being $5 per violator—when he disposed of that number of cases in forty minutes.

Court officers William Crowley, custodian of fine slips, and Edward Hayes, collector, fitted into the scheme of things with Clerk Charles Willock in relieving the offenders hurriedly. Those who wish to plead guilty assemble on one side of the court room and pay the fine as their name is called, in the new system. Judge Creed expressed satisfaction over the trial.

PASTOR QUITS IN ROW OVER SACCO CASE

Washington, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Dissension with members of his parish at Leonardtown, St. Mary's County, Md., over the Sacco-Vanzetti case has resulted in the resignation of the Rev. G. W. Whitmore, St. Andrew's Church.

Bishop James E. Freeman of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Wilmington, in making the resignation announcement today, admitted the militant rector became involved with parishioners as well as with Rev. L. K. Long, pastor of the Leonardtown Methodist Church, in controversies about the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

Rev. Mr. Whitmore, who is a foe of fundamentalism and prohibition, will continue as rector of St. George's Church at Valley Lee, his principal parish, Bishop Freeman said.

Reformer Silent

HAS FOOTBALL FINALLY SQUELCHED REFORMER?

FOOTBALL has passed through another season, the campaign ends officially Saturday, and established all kinds of new records. Bigger crowds paid more money than ever to see the young collegians give their all for alma mater on numerous gridirons.

The outstanding record of the year, however, was made by the reformers. They never yipped a yip. One heard nothing whatever about over-emphasis, or brutality. There was no chatter about rough playing, the collecting of players, or any of the other so-called evils that have been filling sundry Falls with loud wails of protest.

Nick Flatley

There was, it seemed to us, just as much to protest this year as ever. A few athletes broke limbs in the wild surge of the scrimmages; now and again some hot-headed youth took a pop at an official, verbally or with his fist; a real opening offered when it was discovered that Yale had played a lot of games with the ineligible Bruce Caldwell.

But the plaintive moan of the reformer was missing. No explaining it, unless perhaps he has surrendered. He made his great play last Fall, and retired from the stage with the raucous laughter of the country ringing in his ears. His last bit of fight must have vanished early this Fall when the gangs at the preliminary games were bigger than the mobs that used to watch the climactic battles.

Football is an American habit, and all the howls in the world will not hurt it a bit. It goes serenely along, even botched rules failing to stunt its growth in the slightest. Its greatest triumph has been in silencing the reformer. This proves that anything can be done.

Which reminds us that two of the real gridiron wars of the year will be staged as a finale Saturday. The whole country will watch the Army-Navy struggle with real interest, while this section of the world knows that the Boston College-Holy Cross collision always means a flock of the hardest football that is played anywhere.

MISTER DEMPSEY SEEMS TO HAVE HAD ALL THE BEST OF THE FIRST ROUND OF HIS LEGAL BATTLE WITH THE OLD PAL, J. KEARNS.

Here lie the remains of J. Angus McSwatt.
He set out to coach, but alas, he could not.

THESE TEAMS ARE GOOD, EVEN IF THEY'RE BAD

THE time has arrived when it is the thing to pick a few All teams.

These mythical arrays do not mean much in the progress of the nation, nor do they affect the price of Thanksgiving turkey, but we have yet to find a football fan of any sort who didn't like to pick them to pieces, fast as they appear. It is always good to give the fan what he wants—either to knock or boost.

Following are a couple of All-Eastern teams, picked mostly from athletes who have been viewed by your correspondent in the course of the past two months:

FIRST TEAM.	SECOND TEAM.
Left end, Lawler, Princeton	Left end, Scott, Yale
Left tackle, Hake, Penn	Left tackle, Lassman, N. Y. U.
Left guard, Webster, Yale	Left guard, French, Princeton
Center, Grigsby, Georgetown	Center, Charlesworth, Yale
Right guard, Cervini, Holy Cross	Right guard, Miller, Amherst
Right tackle, Sprague, Army	Right tackle, Fitzgerald, Tufts
Right end, Fishwick, Yale	Right end, Harbold, Army
Quarterback, Connor, N. Y. U.	Quarterback, McPhail, Dartmouth
Left halfback, Nork, Georgetown	Left halfback, Lane, Dartmouth
Right halfback, Marsters, Dart'th	Right halfback, Amos, W. and J
Fullback, Miles, Princeton	Fullback, Briante, N. Y. U.

No matter what holes may be shot through these selections, we will still claim that either team, if it could be rolled together, would tip over quite a flock of the very best opposition.

IF THE FIGHT BUSINESS DOESN'T PICK UP IN THESE PARTS, THE BOYS WILL NOT NEED TO BUILD THAT NEW ARENA FOR TEN OF FIFTEEN YEARS.

JACK RYDER SHOULD BE OLYMPIC COACH

LAWSON ROBERTSON, head coach of the next American Olympic team, will have at least a million applications from those who would be assistants. The boys aren't a bit averse to taking a month in Europe during the usually dull Summer months.

Lawson knows his onions, and will come up with a good staff. He will be asked, quite strongly we imagine, to name Jack Ryder of Boston College and the B. A. A. to go along with him. And he should elect Jack.

PUBLIC TO SEE MALCEWICZ

Panther Joe Malcewicz will show the wrestling fans just how good or how bad is his condition when he stages a public work-out at the South End Gymnasium at 1160 Washington street Wednesday afternoon.

George McLeod is also in wonderful shape and will work out in the same gymnasium from 3:15 to 5 or as long as the work-out takes. His training like that of Malcewicz will be open to the public and will give the fans a line on the work of the two men.

Their finish match at the Grand Opera House Thanksgiving night has the fans up in the air.

Mike Nazarian Armenian Champion wrestler is training hard to fit himself for his all important match with Jovanni Vargarini the Italian champion.

Joe Bull Komar, Lithuanian Tiger will make his first appearance at the Grand Opera House meeting a pair of local boys while Ned McGuire will try to continue his winning streak when he meets Tom Lurick of Russia.

TIGERS FACING TOUGH TASK

Softening teams before their objective games applies as strongly to professional hockey teams as it does to college football teams. This is particularly true of the situation confronting the Boston Tigers of the Canadian-American League.

The Tigers are especially anxious to knock off the Philadelphia Arrows in their league game at the Arena Thanksgiving night. This sudden rivalry that has developed between Boston and Philadelphia has been caused by the statement of Norman Shay and Spider Fynan who directs the Arrows that they would walk through the Tigers.

This threat to clean them up has put the Tigers in a bitter frame of mind, for they know that no team in any professional league is walking through the team coached by Eddie Powers with its powerful array of offensive and defensive players.

Strong B. C. Backfield for Purple Tussle

The best backfield that Boston College has been able to present all season will face Holy Cross at Braves Field next Saturday. The quartet is composed of Al Weston, quarterback, Bud Dower and Paddy Creedon, halfbacks and Tom Smith, fullback.

Daley has been experimenting during the entire campaign. He has tried every available man in the varsity backfield. But it was not until last Saturday against the Conn. Aggies that he found what he has been looking for all season; a backfield with a punch.

And this ball-carrying four has plenty of power. Every man is capable of gaining a couple of yards at least when handed the oval. They are all good interfering and defensive men, and Dower and Weston have triple threat qualities.

Starting off the year Coach Leo Daley had Weston and Creedon at the halfback berths with Smith at full and Eddie Bond at quarterback. This quartet failed to function right and took a bad beating in the opener from Duke University. Daley decided upon a change and in the following game had Luke McGowan at the signal singing berth.

Still he wasn't satisfied. The four seemed to lack a scoring drive. So he experimented with Dower and Wilczewski in the backfield. Tom Smith had broken his hand and this was responsible for the shifting of the Eagle backs.

Dower fitted in nicely. He hits a line savagely and was just the man Coach Daley wanted to smash the opposing frontier. But Wilczewski did not come through as was expected. He starred against West Virginia Wesleyan, but Daley found out in the Georgetown game that big Zeus was a better lineman than a back.

HITTING ON ALL SIXES.

Smith returned to the fold and won his old job back immediately. Daley shifted Dower to a halfback berth with Creedon as a running mate and continued to use Weston at the quarterback job.

This was the backfield that Coach Daley started against the Conn Aggies last Saturday and it's the best looking quartet that has been gamboling with the Maroon and Gold this Fall.

Smith and Dower continually banged off tackle for long gains while Weston and Creedon flashed around the ends. If it wasn't for a muddy field this backfield would have trotted off an overwhelming score in no time.

Smith showed his usually strong defensive game and Creedon and Weston returned to their old form. Dower's punting rounded out a fine backfield that possessed just about everything that any coach could care for.

Wilczewski and Tom O'Brien will be Boston College's starting guards against the Crusaders. Both these boys were out of the Aggie game with injuries. Smith has not played since the Villanova game. But they'll both be in there strong against the O'Donnell tribe.

EXPECT GREAT THRONG.

Daley's boys will put in another stiff session today. B. C. has a lot of new tricks to spring on the Holy Cross defense. The Eagle has been well-scouted this Fall and Daley realizes that it would be foolish to use the plays he has been flashing all season for H. C. would stop them without much difficulty.

Although the Boston College and Holy Cross elevens are not up to the usual standard this year there is sure to be one of the largest crowds ever to witness this annual classic at Braves Field.

The new layout of the gridiron on Braves Field should please the attendants at the game.

CERVINI WILL PLAY AGAINST THE EAGLES

Worcester, Nov. 22.—Holy Cross has started on its last week of training preparatory to Saturday's game with Boston College, which will climax the current season.

The injured are beginning to rejoin the team, and full strength is expected by Thursday, when Daley, the Purple's line crashing fullback, reports for action.

A bad leg has kept him on the side lines for over a week, but he is responding to treatment, and will most likely be in shape for Saturday's tussle.

The coaches have decided that there will be no scrimmage on this week's program, as they are unwilling to risk the chance of having any more added to the injured list.

Gus Cervini, who was injured in the Boston University game and forced to retire for the first time in his three years of varsity play, was not in uniform yesterday. His right side was badly bruised and he was given leave of absence for a day. However, he will be on hand for practice today.

MIDDIES PRAYFOR RAIN

Fred Beans May Replace Ted Sloane at Left End on Saturday

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 22 (I.N.S.).—The Navy today was offering up gentle prayers for a bit of rain Saturday. Not because the Navy's business is generally wet but because the Middies feel they have become exceedingly adept under wet ball conditions.

Training, much of the season, has been under dripping skies and on a soggy field, while several of its major contests have had similar scenic background.

Today's training session was no exception. The field was heavy and the ball somewhat water-logged.

Dummy scrimmage and signal drill has entirely replaced any heavy line scrimmage with its possibilities of injuries, and the first string backs Hannegan, Ransford and Clifton were hard at work over new formations.

Possible change in the regular line was foreseen today in the official favor being bestowed upon Fred Beans, sub left end. Beans has developed so rapidly that speculation has him replacing Ted Sloane, former Drake star, at that position against the Army Saturday.

Army Eleven Trains Under Flood Lights

West Point, Nov. 22 (I.N.S.).—With electric flood lights set up for secret night drills, the Army eleven started preparations for the Navy classic Saturday with considerable seriousness.

Monday's session found few of the regulars in action, but the reserves had a hard day. The coaches were openly displeased with the scrub showing against Ursinus Saturday.

With Nave back at his quarter position today—his first appearance for scrimmage since the Notre Dame game—the Army seniors expressed satisfaction, for the first time in years, with the outlook in general.

In previous seasons doubt has remained until almost the hour of the game as to candidates for one or more positions. Today the Army's lineup is secure.

And to safeguard the "blessing" coaches announced that no heavy scrimmages would be held during the week. Light tussles with extensive ball toting drill and signal work will occupy the large part of training sessions.

Specs Ask $30 for Pair of Army-Navy Tickets

New York, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—Demands for seats at the festive board when Army and Navy dish up the final football "spread" of the Eastern season in the Polo Grounds next Saturday have shot the price of the few pasteboards held by speculators to $30 a pair.

The tickets are priced originally at $5.00 each.

"Cav" Says:

By MAJOR FRANK W. CAVANAUGH

Head Football Coach at Fordham University.
Former Head Coach at Boston College.

Since I first became interested in college football, thirty years ago, the increase in enthusiasm and attendance at games has been amazing.

There is one phase of the game which has changed considerably for the better and that is the care and attention given to the actual participants in the game.

At the present time even the smallest of our colleges have adequate equipment and playing facilities. The practise fields are in good shape, the gymnasiums and training quarters are good as human ingenuity can make them, and practically all of them have training tables for the players.

Supervision of the athletes' food has been very beneficial to the game. There is no record of just how many injuries have been prevented by the right kind of food, but I'll wager that more than the accidents reported in the old smash 'em days could be traced to improper eating.

A man in poor physical condition will always be more easily injured than one in good trim, and a player who has not kept the rules of training can never attain real condition.

WHEN I was a player at Dartmouth there was a candidate out for the right tackle position who only weighed about 165 pounds. He was a candidate all the time I was on the team, and I often wondered how he was able to play so well against teams of the heft and weight that we met.

The years we played were in the late nineties when, to put it mildly, football was no gentle game. During his second year on the varsity, I asked him one day how it was he was able to put so much fire and enthusiasm into his playing.

He told me that the reason he played so hard was that if he stayed on the team he could eat at the training table.

It seems that this fellow and his roommate were so low in funds that they were forced to live on potatoes and apples during most of their college year.

WHEN I was captain of the freshman team in the last game of the year, a substitute player came to me and asked to be let into the game.

I looked at him in surprise but he explained he needed the sweater given to all the players who won their numerals in this, the last game.

I put him in for a few minutes at the end of the game, and later he came around and thanked me, adding that I had probably saved his life, for he would have frozen in the cold New Hampshire Winter if he hadn't had some warm garment to wear under his ragged overcoat.

That man is now one of the best known bankers in the country.

JOE POTTER TO GO UNDER KNIFE

Jo Potter, seventeen-year-old sophomore sensation of the Harvard eleven, must undergo an operation for a leg injury suffered in mid season and aggravated in the Yale game.

Dr. Tommy Richards, Crimson grid physician, will not comment on the seriousness of the injury, but he has decided to operate on the Milwaukee youth at once.

It is the sincere hope of everybody connected with Harvard football that Potter will be in shape to play next season. He broke into national prominence by his great work at fullback in the Indiana game and promises to become one of the outstanding stars of the game before he completes his college grid career, if he is not handicapped by injury.

The gloom that descended on Harvard with the announcement of Potter's injury lifted, however, when it was learned that Howie Burns, lit[illegible] quarterback, would probably return to college and play football next Fall.

Burns has not made a final decision as yet, but from the present outlook it appears as though he and Tommy Gilligan will be fighting it out for the quarterback berth next year.

Arnold Horween has left Cambridge carrying plenty of football worries along with him.

Horween today starts a tour of the West in quest of a new backfield assistant to fill the shoes of Charley Buell. Buell has given up his berth as backfield mentor and will probably return to Milton Academy as a teacher-coach.

The loss of Buell is a tough one for Horween. The crafty Crimson quarterback of former years was regarded as Horween's right [illegible] this year. It was said [illegible] that [illegible] ween [illegible] a move without the advice of Buell. The pair formed the Crimson strategy board.

Buell had signed a one-year contract last January, and was offered another covering the same duration of time last week. Buell refused.

Horween alone knows how many of his present staff will return. At [illegible] Burnham has given him [illegible] permission over the [illegible] of his assistants. It is rumored that one of the present staff will go with Buell. And, of course, it is either Carney, Dunne or Kennard.

These post-mortem days are just as serious as the days before fight week. This morning several Crimson athletes picked up their belongings in the locker building while a score of the squad reported to Dr. Tommy Richards for medical assistance on bruises sustained in the Yale game.

Joe Crosby's carbuncle is still draining and the medico has sent him away to his home in Jamaica Plain.

Scholastic Chatter

By Joe Cashman

A CITY LEAGUE contest between Trade School and Mechanic Arts at Fenway Park is the only entertainment offered the grid fan today. Neither team is going to get anywhere in particular in the circuit, but their battle should be worth while watching, just the same. All these tilts between the Hub high school elevens provide plenty of fireworks.

Tomorrow, two District League games will serve as appetizers for the score or more of traditional clashes listed for Thanksgiving Day. East Boston and South Boston, greatest of District League rivals, will meet at Fenway Park and Brighton will take on Charlestown at University Heights.

Hyde Park, by its victory over Jamaica Plain, yesterday, clinched the District League title. Coach Skip Sherlock, former Commerce mentor, deserves much credit for the fine machine he moulded together. Chippendale, star back, and Marcus, a guard, were the outstanding Hyde Park performers all season.

Latin and English, oldest and greatest schoolboy rivals in New England, will stage their annual battle at Fenway Park, Turkey Day morning. The Purple will start a big favorite, but you never can tell what will happen when these traditional opponents come together. English can be counted upon to strive its hardest, for a win for the Blue and Blue will put it in a tie with Latin for the City League title.

Other objective battles listed for the holiday are Lowell at Lawrence, Malden at Medford, Salem at Beverly, Revere at Winthrop, Lynn Classical and Lynn English, Cambridge Latin at Everett, Melrose at Arlington, Boston College High at St. James, Newton at Brookline, Concord at Lexington, Peabody at Haverhill and Leominster at Fitchburg.

Much interest is being manifested by schoolboy fans in the visit of Detroit Tech of Michigan to Brockton Thanksgiving Day. The visitors are highly rated in their home town. They will have to be good to pin a defeat on the Shoe City eleven, one of the classiest in the State.

* * *

The undefeated Norwood High eleven will engage in an inter-State game on the holiday when it entertains Warwick, R. I., High.

It is rumored that Peabody High will withdraw from the North Shore league at the end of the current grid season. If this is true, it is probable that the famous schoolboy circuit will disband.

Two fine all-around athletes will close their scholastic football career when Brighton faces Charlestown at University Heights, tomorrow. We refer to Captain Jim Pallas and Joe Ryder, backfield aces of the Shannon-coached brigade. Pallas has been a football, hockey and baseball star at Brighton for three years while Ryder, a transfer from Framingham, is also a letterman in the same three sports.

* * *

Less than two weeks ago, Malden High was expected to prove a set-up for Medford in their annual Thanksgiving Day battle, but now the betting on the contest is even. Malden gave the dope two great wallops by taking Fitchburg and Haverhill into camp, and many believe that Coach Batchelder's boys will add Medford to their list of [illegible]

Yale to Choose New Captain Tonight

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 22.—The annual election of a Yale football captain will take place tonight in the Hotel Taft when the thirty-three players who took part in the Yale games against Princeton and Harvard cast their votes.

The election will be held as the first scene of the yearly banquet of the team. Johnny Hoben of Torrington, Conn., is favorite in campus forecasts as the probable choice of the meeting.

John Dudley Charlesworth of North Adams, Mass., will poll a good sized block of votes and is a possible winner. John Garvey of Moosic, Penn., halfback, and Eddie Decker of Newton, Mass., halfback, are also candidates of some strength.

B. C. OFFERS LEO DALEY 1928 CONTRACT

Coach Leo Daley, head football coach at Boston College, has been offered a new contract to serve as the Eagles' gridiron coach in 1928. This action on the part of the Boston College authorities was predicted by the Boston Evening American [illegible] when [illegible] Daley was to [illegible] at the Heights.

After the Georgetown game [illegible] Daley's future [illegible] present coach of Villanova, one of the teams which defeated Boston College, was mentioned as Daley's successor [illegible] Notre Dame player was also mentioned for the job.

An Associated Press dispatch [illegible] day saying that Daley had been offered a new contract confirms the Boston Evening American's prediction, based on statements by a member of the graduate athletic board.

Leo Daley, who is a junior master in the Boston public high schools, is at present on a year's leave of absence. In order to accept the B. C. contract for 1928 Daley must secure another leave of absence or resign from the Boston schools.

It is expected, however, that the Boston School Committee will grant Daley another leave of absence provided that Daley cares to go back to the Heights.

By BILL GRIMES

Now that Yale has been proclaimed Eastern champions, Illinois has carried off the high honors in the Western Conference and Tufts and Georgia gone through without a defeat or even a tie, the time arrives for the selection of the mythical elevens.

As it is the running back who catches the eye of the plaudits, one turns first to the backfield selections.

Al Marsters, the Dartmouth sophomore, tops anything in the field. The Arlington boy is by far the greatest in the game. He is a back without a weakness. In every department of the game he reigns supreme.

[illegible] Marsters [illegible] passing [illegible] kicking and [illegible] as Al Marsters. During the eight games [illegible] this season Marsters [illegible] one mile.

Opponents found him one of the hardest to bring down. Lightning fast and with a most deceptive change of pace, Marsters outran and outfoxed opponents until he was the [illegible]

[illegible] usual amount of deception to Marsters' passes.

He is a fine blocking back, taking out his man in clean-cut fashion, which is a rare trait in the general run of sensational ball carriers. Al Marsters is also a wonderful defensive back. He diagnoses plays quickly and is hard to fool. In tackling Marsters brings down his man with a real smack and few forwards were completed in his zone this season.

No team was able to stop Marsters this season. Even Yale found him the toughest type of running back to get a clean shot at and his great run down the sidelines in the Bowl this Fall was easily the outstanding one of the season. Anyone who has had the pleasure of seeing Marsters in action and who fails to select this lad for All American honors will [illegible] grounds for protests [illegible]

The Story of the Stars (Invention of the Telescope) By Garrett P. Serviss

In the Thirteenth Century an English monk, Roger Bacon, who was called a magician because his science was ahead of his time, clearly described how a telescope could be made.

The Roman ruler, Nero, may have possessed the germ of the telescope, for Pliny, the historian, says that emperor watched the sword play of the gladiators through a magnifying gem in his ring.

A boy apprentice of a Dutch spectacle-maker, Jan Lippershey, in 1608, while playing with lenses, accidentally combined them so as to form a rude telescope. His master was astonished by the results.

Others in Holland began to make telescopes, and in 1609 Galileo, in Italy, made a much better one on his own plan—the first real telescope, which revolutionized astronomy. (Continued Tomorrow)

YOU SAID IT, MARCELINE!

It seems there is a NEW Kind of GRASS WIDOW,
Called the GOLF WIDOW.
This NEW species seems to Get QUITE a little sympathy
From wives, divorcees and REGULAR sod-widows. Which is
AMUSING. For, after all, if
A woman is going to LOSE
Her husband ANYWAY, it seems
NICER to lose him to a
Harmless little GOLF BALL
Than to ANOTHER woman.
For GOLF, after all, is quite
A nice GAME, and it
APPARENTLY keeps a man
CONTENTED as well as QUIET.
Yes, there REALLY is quite
A LITTLE in favor of it.
If her husband is DEVOTED to GOLF, his wife at least
KNOWS it is all in the OPEN.
So WHY sympathize with
These golf widows?
But if it's a WOMAN—well,
She MAY be in the dark.
But, PERHAPS, it is NOT
Because their HUSBANDS play
GOLF till sunset,
But that the brutes WILL
TALK about it till SUNRISE,
That makes these WIDOWS sore.

Stuffing for Turkey

By MARTHA LEE.

TO me the dressing is the very best part of the Thanksgiving turkey and today I'm going to give you some of my favorite variations of the old standbys.

DRESSING NO. 1—1 qt fine breadcrumbs, 4 tbsps shortening, 1½ tsp salt, 2 tbsps chopped on[illegible] 2 tbsps chopped parsley, ½ tsp powdered thyme, ¼ tsp white pepper, 1 egg, 1 c[illegible] [illegible] a little warm water, [illegible].

Mix sausage with breadcrumbs adding [illegible] shortening, seasonings, grated [illegible] and strained juice of [illegible] lemon, and moisten with a little hot water. Be careful not to make stuffing too moist. [illegible] and [illegible] fold over [illegible] and [illegible] skewer through [illegible] part of legs and body, catching leg and [illegible] it on other side, now secure bottom part of leg, which should have feet cut off halfway, to [illegible] joint [illegible] breast of bird with stuffing and skewer down skin.

Place two strips salt pork in bottom of roasting pan, lay in turkey and place several strips salt pork over breast and sprinkle lightly with flour. Roast in hot oven, allowing [illegible] minutes to the pound. Baste [illegible] with melted shortening. Serve [illegible], decorated with [illegible] onions, celery tips, cranberries and parsley.

DRESSING No. 2—Twelve tbsps [illegible], 4 tbsps shortening, 4 cups [illegible], [illegible] beaten eggs, 1 tbsp chopped parsley, 4 tbsps milk, [illegible] pepper, white pepper, powdered [illegible] to suit your taste.

Melt the shortening, add to it the crumbs, eggs, parsley, milk and season.

DRESSING No. 3—Three cups stale bread crumbs, ½ cup melted butter, salt and pepper, few drops [illegible], [illegible] pint oysters.

Mix ingredients in the order given, adding [illegible] cleaned and drained [illegible].

DRESSING No. 4 POTATO STUFFING—[illegible] fine [illegible] pork, 1½ cup soft [illegible] bread crumbs, 2 cups hot mashed potatoes, [illegible] chopped onion, [illegible] cup butter, 1 tsp. sage, 1½ tsp. [illegible].

Add to potato, breadcrumbs, butter, [illegible] salt and sage, then add pork and onion.

DRESSING No. 5 PLAIN—One [illegible] stale breadcrumbs or pieces of bread, 1 tbsp chopped parsley, ½ cup [illegible] water or milk, grated rind of half a lemon, 1 tsp. mixed herbs, 1/3 cup melted butter or suet, salt and pepper.

Crumble the bread finely, add the parsley, lemon rind, herbs, salt and [illegible] the suet and add to the other ingredients, or if butter is used, melt it in the water or milk and add, mixing well [illegible] of the [illegible] with the [illegible] stuffing turkey double all the ingredients.

ENGLISH STUFFING—Melt two tbsps butter, add one tbsp. chopped onion, three cups soft bread crumbs, chopped liver and heart, one tsp. salt, one tsp. poultry seasoning, one [illegible] chopped pickles, ¼ tsp. pepper.

By MRS. CORNELIUS BECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEEKMAN,

Would you be so kind as to give me the order in which the following bridal processional would march? [illegible] maid of honor, the ushers, best man and groom.

2. If the bride is to be given away by her brother, her father being dead, does he march with her in the procession or meet her at the altar with the groom and best man? Then what does he do? When I say "Then what does he do?" I mean does he stay with the bridal party or take a seat beside his mother?

Thank you. A READER.

FIRST come the two ushers, walking together. Then the ring-bearer, alone. Next the matron of honor, walking alone. Last the bride and her brother. The best man and groom wait at the front of the altar.

[illegible] he walks with the [illegible] up the aisle. Of [illegible] the [illegible] to walk [illegible] but usually a bride [illegible] walking [illegible] relative who is to [illegible].

If [illegible] other [illegible] when [illegible] reach the [illegible] of the chancel steps the groom steps forward to meet her. At the same time the brother steps to the left and a step behind the bride. Here he waits until the time in the ceremony when the minister says, "Who giveth this woman to this man." Then he steps [illegible] hand in the clergyman's hand. This part of the ceremony over, your brother steps into the pew with your mother, the first pew on the left.

The LOVELORN by Beatrice Fairfax

'So You're Still in Love With Georgie?' Ann Inquired of Bill

A Love Serial of Boston Girls by an Authority on the Affairs of the Heart

CHAPTER 20

They moved down the platform together. The man in the booth, with a string of tickets falling invitingly from the machine near him, grinned mechanically.

"Try it again, folks. Second time's the big thrill!" he said briskly.

Bill glanced at Ann, but she only shook her head. Her nerves were jumping. No scenic railway could make her heart leap as it was leaping now.

What she had determined upon frightened her, took her breath away. But she must show Bill how she felt, she must make him turn to her in realization and tenderness. And he was brooding now, thinking of Georgie still, as if the thought gnawed at his spirit and would never give him peace.

"Anything you'd particularly like to do?" he asked, but his tone was flat. The joy had gone out of him, and the carelessness that was his charm. No memory of the good shots he had made with a target rifle could cheer him up now.

"What do you want to do, Bill?"

"Oh, I don't know. One thing's about the same as another. We might go over and listen to the band."

"No, let's go over there."

"By the sand, you mean?"

She nodded. "Yes, it's just be quiet and—look at the water and the lights. I always like to watch them when I come here."

But except for Bill and Ann there was no one at the shore. The benches that fringed the sand were all deserted. The crowd seethed and hummed where the lights were and the barkers sold their wares.

Bill lit a cigarette, flicking the match into the water with a snap of his fingers. He was silent.

Ann's fingers stole under the edge of the bench and gripped it, as if she were bracing herself for a physical ordeal.

"So you're still in love with her," she said.

Strange how quiet her voice was, how matter-of-fact!

Stranger still was his surprise. He turned quickly, startled that his thoughts should be so plain. He threw the scarcely smoked cigarette from him with a nervous gesture.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean, you're still in love with Georgie, of course."

"Gosh, Ann, you're wonderful. The way you read my mind. But—but I'm not in love with her."

"You keep thinking about her, Bill—you've been thinking about her all evening."

Bill Seemed Glad of Chance To Unburden Himself

He seemed grateful for the chance to talk, to unburden himself with confession.

"I don't know what's the matter with me. I swear I don't. You see last week I thought everything all out. I saw it was useless, and I gave up. I was blue until I did that. And then it was easy. It was just as if I'd never liked her. I felt cheerful, too. And I wondered why it was I used to lie awake at nights and think about her and—and things like that."

"But, Bill, you've been thinking about her tonight."

"I know I have. When she came into the restaurant, I saw her right away. You didn't know that, did you?"

"Oh, yes, I knew."

"Did you?" He looked astonished. "You're so clever, you see everything, Ann."

"As if any girl wouldn't see it she—if she were watching things."

Bill locked his fingers together. He was silent for a long moment, as if he were trying to arrange his thoughts that were troubled with emotions he could not express.

"I don't know how it was that it all came back. I guess it was just seeing her with that jazz hound. Listen! I'd have enjoyed going over and punching him one. Honest! And then it all came back, and I felt low—I can't tell you how I felt."

"You were jealous."

"Jealous? Of him!" He laughed scornfully. "Jealous of a bird like that? No, I was just sore at seeing her play around with him—that was all. And then when she turned her back and wouldn't look our way—I don't know how to tell you—but I just felt—I just felt—"

He stumbled hopelessly and ended his words with a gesture.

"I know, Bill. I know." And Ann was sorry for him, and sorry for herself.

"Gosh, you're a good sport, Ann—to listen to me rave on like this. You certainly are sympathetic. You're wonderful—that's what you are."

"Oh, I'm nothing—it doesn't matter—I—I'd do anything in the world to make you happy."

She looked away suddenly, looked across the black water, with the streaks of moonlight lying on it like sword blades. He must know, he must understand! Her heart seemed to pound so loudly now that she felt it was audible.

A little tremor ran through her. But presently she looked at him covertly and quickly. His eyes were on the ground. He had not even noticed. He was blind—blind and deaf. Must she tell him bluntly to make him realize?

'I Never Thought Much About Love Before,' He Declared

"I never thought much about love before." He was talking as if to himself. "But you know—I've been pretty lonely. All my relatives are out West. And when I fell for Georgie, well it made things different somehow. I wanted to work and make lots of money. I don't care much now."

"But—but Georgie isn't the only girl in the world."

He looked up, a little startled.

"Funny, your saying that! I always thought you wanted Georgie to like me."

"Well, I've changed. I can change, can't I?"

Her voice was unsteady. He had noticed it now.

"What do you mean?"

She tried to answer and could not. Then she turned slowly and deliberately. The moonlight was on her face, on her eyes that burned up into his.

He stared hard at her. His hand went up awkwardly, and brushed his hair back from his forehead.

"But listen, Ann, I don't get you. I don't know just what you mean."

Oh he was blind, blind not to take her in his arms. Why wouldn't he do that at least. Then she would tell him, then she would pour out her undying faith in him, her eternity of love, her will to comfort him and make him happy.

But she couldn't tell him these things now, like this, while he stared at her, incredulously, doubting his eyes. She took the last desperate step. She said in a whisper.

"I want you to like me."

"You want me to like you?" He was still staring, still looking at her in amazement, in utter disbelief.

His gaze held her, but it held her for one instant too long. Suddenly she felt she had cheapened herself, and she despised him for having been the cause of it, despised him and her own traitorous heart.

She got up swiftly, she heard him call to her, but she was hurrying as if her life depended on it. Her senses seemed to swim in a mist. The next moment she was up on the boulevard and had pushed her way through the crowd on the way to the Narrow Gauge station. She was afraid he would find her, catch up to her, but when she reached home and realized that now he couldn't her heart was like lead.

She began to sob even as she undressed. She was still crying, with her head buried in her pillow, when she heard Georgie's step on the stairs. Then she stifled her sobs and lay pretending she was asleep, as Georgie softly opened the door and tiptoed into the room.

'Sally's Shoulders'; Heroine Visits Her Aunt Emily in Weston

Aunt Emily, opening the oven door and taking out a pan of golden-brown ro[illegible]

She emptied them out upon a clean tea towel and [illegible] into the pantry for a p[illegible] some cold [illegible] on a blue platter.

"I'm awfully glad you happened out here tonight, Sally," she s[illegible], pouring the tea into two tall amber glasses and decorating them with sprigs and fresh mint. "I wanted to talk to you about a scheme of mine. If you hadn't dropped in, I was going to call you up at the office tomorrow."

Aunt Emily hardly ever went to the Jerome flat. Her sister-in-law's ways drove her frantic, so she said. He[illegible] "s[illegible] sloppy ways" she called them—lying in bed 'til all hours of the morning and sitting by the hour reading silly books! She couldn't understand such habits, for the life of her.

Tonight Sally saw that she had something on her mind. There was a little frown between her brows and her mouth, always straight and firm, was set with a sort of grim determination.

"You bring along the iced tea and that bowl of jelly, and we'll sit down and talk in peace," she said briskly. "I'm sorry I haven't anything but a pick-up supper for you."

"Pick-up supper!" exclaimed Sally, "why, this is a feast!"

She knew that her aunt expected her to say that. Aunt Emily was always apologizing for the meals she set upon her table, knowing full well that they were wonderful meals. She liked to be told that they were feasts and that there was no cooking in the world like her cooking.

There were cucumber rings, a plate of sugar cookies, half of an almond-cream cake on the little table in the dining room now, besides the chicken, the rolls, and the iced tea.

"I suppose I'd better ask her to lend me the money I've got to have before she gets started on her own affairs," thought Sally, when the meal was almost over. For when her aunt started to talk, there was no turning her aside from her subject.

"Aunt Emily," she was beginning, when Aunt Emily opened her own lips and drowned her out.

"Well, Sally," she said. "I've made up my mind not to go back to school teaching this fall!"

Sally's dark blue eyes widened with astonishment. . . . Aunt Emily not going to teach school this fall. Why, it was unthinkable. Aunt Emily had been teaching school ever since Sally could remember.

"For goodness sake!" she gasped. "Why, what on earth are you going to do? Go to Europe?"

For years and years Aunt Emily had been promising herself a trip to Europe "to see a little something besides [illegible] boards and motor cars," as she said tartly.

She shook her dark, glossy head now, as she pushed back her chair.

"No, indeed!" she replied. "I'm going to go into business. Let's go out on the front porch and get a breath of fresh air."

They went out and sat, side by side, on the top step, in the cool of the evening. Beyond the green patch of lawn and the hedge automobiles went by in endless procession.

"I get so sick of looking at them," said Aunt Emily, who would have loved to own one herself.

Sally barely heard her. . . . If Aunt Emily was going into business, she told herself, she wouldn't dare ask her for the loan of that money. Aunt Emily would need every [illegible]

Her voice trailed off into silence. It would be far more pleasant to be out here with Aunt Emily than sitting in Mr. Peevey's office week after week, knowing that just across the hall Millie was doing her best to make John Nye fall in love with her . . . and that was exactly what Millie would be doing!

An advance crop of next Spring's fruit is already appearing, as many of the latest printed silks have cherry, peach or pear designs. Intended first for Southern resort wear, doubtless these attractive silks will be vastly popular for advance Spring wear.

Nurturing nature as the arch designer of them all, French fashion authorities are turning to natural sources for the decorative motifs with which to embroider evening gowns. Embroidered in silk floss or metallic thread, a tremendous spider web covers almost one entire side of one striking dress, while another has its whole front covered by a giant dragon fly done in metallic thread and brilliant stones. Besides many other insects huge leaves are a popular theme for these elaborate embroideries.

Silk squares stress stripes in allover designs of fine stripes with broadly striped borders. Of heavy crepe de chine, these kerchief scarfs are so mannish in theme that they would be quite suitable for men's mufflers.

A lucky omen is the horseshoe, so the "horseshoe collar" should meet with the success its name suggests. This type of collar is usually developed from flat fur and used upon a formal cloth coat. Final Bid 1 N.T. Played by South

Salient Points of the Bidding

South, with three Quick Tricks in three suits, and his unprotected suit one of three cards, bids one No Trump. West and North passing East decides to pass also as he can support any lead by partner.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. South plays the Jack of Diamonds from Dummy on the chance that West has opened his fourth best from the King-Queen, and, upon East's covering with the King, wins the trick with the Ace at once for fear that East, should he hold the trick with the King, might shift to Clubs.

Trick 2. South starts to develop the Spade instead of the Heart suit, as he figures he may have to lose one or more tricks in Spades, and may not have to lose a Heart trick, if East holds the King. To provide for the possibility of the King of Spades being held singly by one of the two adversaries, South leads his Ace.

Trick 5. South shifts to the Queen of Hearts from Dummy before taking out his last Spade reentry.

HOW TO GET ON

For years I was a social goose egg—a conversational failure. Last night, while attending a smart function, I discovered the secret of social success.

Whenever a snappy comeback was called for I said, "Why bring that up," or "I hope you don't feel hurt."

Everybody howled—I was the life of the party.

Now that the plan is to rematch Dundee and Hudkins, the odds are quoted as follows:

Even money there is no fight.

Ten to one you don't get any of your money back.

Eight to five Dundee doesn't show up at the arena the night of the fight.

Eight to five Dundee doesn't show up at the arena the night of the fight.

Six to one Waxman can lick the commission, individually or collectively.

Hundred to one the lawyers will be the only winners.

Two to one Dick Donald will never rival Tex Rickard.

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY

By Women Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs. Goldie Shoup of St. Joseph, Illinois. She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound. Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their housework easily, happy homes are the result.

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

THE most popular Winter sport in America is "Automobile Golf." The idea of the game is to see how many strikes it takes to knock a pedestrian into the nearest manhole.

IN heavy traffic, a chauffeur doesn't have to call his shots.

BUT he's not allowed to hit you on the rebound.

A LOT of cars are coming equipped with extra light bumpers for putting.

IT costs you a penalty of three strokes for running over an ohter man's pedestrian.

A JAY-WALKER belongs to the motorist who sees him first.

OF course, after you get through with him, you're supposed to put him back in traffic.

HE must be kept on the street. If you knock him up on the sidewalk it's a foul.

ONCE he's past the curbstone, you have to finish your game on a motorcycle.

IT'S a poor player that can't send his victim to the hospital in par.

A BOSTON man bumped a pedestrian into a subway entrance and got credit for a hole-in-one.

IT really required two strokes. He used a motorcycle for knocking him out of the gutter.

IT was a difficult shot. The pedestrian was lying between a street cleaner's cart and a delivery wagon.

YOU have to be careful. If you knock a man into an excavation, he's out of bounds.

YOU'RE not allowed to use him any more. He reverts to his family.

AUTOMOBILE golf is an exciting game and motorists should play it as often as they can before we run out of pedestrians.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

NOT until a woman has been married at least twice, does she realize what a vital part a man's trousers play in his life. Not until she has profaned them by hanging them wrong end up, or folding them over a chair does she realize their sacredness.

A man's trousers are to his spirit what a woman's hats are to her soul and her vanity. They induce his moods; they are symbols of his temperament and guide-posts to his character.

A woman may rumple a man's evening shirt, weep all over his coat lapel and cover his sleeve with rice-powder. But let her beware how she trifle with his trousers! The greatest proof of his love is his willingness to let a girl sit on his knee all evening—and spoil the creases in his trousers.

Trousers are symbolic! When men wore long petticoats, like Solomon and David, the world was full of poets and philosophers. Baggy trousers are an almost infallible sign of great intellect. No man ever wrote a great book, penned a great poem or became a great inventor in well-fitting trousers.

* * *

In order to THINK, a man must have his trousers wild and carefree. That is why Oxford bags are SO collegiate! And intellectual!

Meticulously creased and perfectly fitting trousers are, on the other hand, the symbol of material success. The snappy business man, the rising politician, the doctor, the broker, are known at sight by their razor-edged knee creases. Without these, they would be utter failures!

Every man changes his moods with his trousers. Half the time, a woman doesn't recognize her own husband across a ball-room, in his evening trousers. It is so hard to recognize the solemn, dignified, unhappy looking person with the polished manner and the impressive air as the same happy-go-lucky being who was singing in his bath and swearing at his razor half an hour before.

* * *

Put the same man in white plus fours and he "feels like a boy" again! You've got to keep your eye on him to keep him out of mischief. Knickers make him frisky and flirtatious. How Washington ever won the Revolutionary War in them without stopping every few minutes to admire his calves, no wife can imagine. More men have strayed from the straight and narrow path in fancy golf stockings than ever slipped in dancing pumps. They make a man feel so dare-devil and debonnair!

MOTHER

Look at Child's Tongue if Sick, Cross, Feverish

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! See if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup"; then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

NOW'S THE TIME TO SPREAD JOY FOR XMAS

their Japanese home, for the homecoming of the light of their life.

Mrs. Goodfellow turns her steps into the bleak home, bringing with her happiness, warmth, love, human fellowship. She puts into eager young hands her gifts of food and raiment and toys.

But she takes something away with her. She has gained a certain something that will stay with her all her days: a deep understanding of the misfortunes of others and a keen realization of the tragedy of what a child's disappointment might have been.

Home once more she weeps many tears thinking through her whole Christmas day of that little home and those two forlorn youngsters who might have been forced to believe that there is no Santa Claus; a disillusionment which would in later life be translated into a belief that there is no such thing as human fellowship, sympathy, justice.

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE

You may thrill at the thought of an old-fashioned Christmas Day in the midst of family and loved ones You may palpitate with the excitement of an outdoor Christmas of sports in the Berkshires or Quebec

But you will never know the real spirit of Christmas; you will never understand the true message of the church; you will never experience real exhilaration until you have reached out with a gesture of real whole-heartedness a hand of comfort to some helpless one who has no claim upon you.

Will you be Santa Claus for some distressed little family?

The Boston Evening American Goodfellow Club is once more in operation, prepared to deliver to generous-minded readers the letters of appeal that are already coming in from numberless little children and sorely-tried widowed mothers.

The plan of the Goodfellow Club in brief is to enable you to be your own Santa Claus. Write to the Goodfellow Editor and tell him that you would like to provide for a little family on Christmas. Indicate, if you wish, the section of the city, or the neighborhood where you would like to make your offering. Out of the many letters of appeal received and investigated, one will be selected which you can follow up.

PLEASE ACT TODAY

You will be able to study the worthiness of the appeal. You will be able to decide the sort of gift that will be most suitable, whether in the form of food or clothing or toys. There will be no intermediary between you and the little family whose Christmas you will brighten

If you hesitate about undertaking the direct delivery of your gifts, the members of the Boston Evening American staff will gladly undertake this work for you. They are giving their time without stint to this work. If you wish to have them make your purchases, they will do that, following your instructions to the letter, making the most careful purchases, with scrupulous care that every last cent of yours goes direct to the family you have chosen to help.

It is urgent though, that you act at once, before the hustle and bustle of Christmas shopping and last-minute duties have driven today's resolution from your mind.

Write today to the Goodfellow Editor, Boston Evening American, Winthrop square, Boston. Tell him what sized family you can provide for, and he will forward you one of the many pathetic letters which he has in his hands.

Please write today. Tomorrow you may be too busy.

BRIGHTON HIGH LOSES

Two fine backs when Joe Ryder, left, and Captain Tom Pallas close their football careers in game with Charlestown High tomorrow. Both lads are all-round stars, being outstanding hockey and baseball performers, also. They will be graduated in June.

B. A. A. Again Fosters Amateur Hockey

Due to the failure of the warring factions of the University Club Hockey Team to reach a mutual agreement, the Boston Athletic Association will again be represented by a hockey sextette.

Although one of the pioneers of hockey in this country, the Boston Athletic Association has not been represented on the ice for three years.

For more than a decade, the Unicorn boasted of the best hockey sextettes in the United States and the return of this organization will bolster the amateur game, which, if properly handled, can be made to flourish as it did in the past.

Last Winter, during the initial attempt of the University Club to participate in hockey, there was a noticeable undercurrent of bad feeling existing throughout the season. The squad was openly divided into two factions, one favoring an Owen directed team and the other desirous of playing under the leadership of Jack Hutchinson.

A few weeks ago, the University Club players received letters from George Owen, Sr., asking that he be advised as to their hockey intentions for the coming season. But Leon Tuck will be in charge of the University Club.

Unknown to anyone, Jack Hutchinson has been on a still hunt for players for more than a month. Until Hutchinson began to wean players from the University Club, everything was running smoothly. However, a far different condition now exists. Hutchinson started his campaign by getting the sanction of a few prominent B. A. A. members, then began to gather his players, and finally made arrangements for practice sessions at the Boston Arena. Although Hutchinson has been seen around the Arena for the past two weeks few knew of his intentions.

Hutchinson has lined up some of the best amateur material in these parts. Sykes Hardy and Larry Noble were the first players to take up the Hutchinson standards. Hardy and Noble were rated with the best in the college ranks, the former captaining Dartmouth and the latter leading Yale, last season. With such a fine nucleus, the Boston Athletic Association is once more on its way to the front ranks of hockey.

There are a sufficient number of high class hockey players in this vicinity to warrant two teams. In fact, there are twenty-one players here who won their hockey letters in their respective colleges. With but one amateur club in action the development of amateurs in retarded. The University Club has planned to play about fifteen games this season and figured to have two teams in action.

IRVIN COBB BEST OF AUTHORS WITH SHOTGUN

Jet, Okla., Nov. 22 (A.P.)—Irvin S. Cobb has proved his "trigger finger" is quicker than that of several other writers by bagging ten quail in considerable less time than his companions in a hunt arranged for prominent authors and publishers here.

Rex Beach, novelist, shot his way to second honors at the Saline game preserve when the season opened yesterday.

An exhibition of squirrel shooting, led by Mr. Cobb, concluded the day's activities.

Inside Golf

By Chester Horton

The point of plain evidence which golfers of pretty fair ability otherwise overlook is that 17 holes of good golf, or 16 or a dozen holes do not constitute a round of good golf. A round of golf means 18 holes perfectly played, or nearly so. By nearly so, I mean you might get down a long putt to make up for a terrible approach, which is an allowable part of the game. Usually, the player will sob about the great round he might have had if his midiron, say, hadn't blown up on him at the 8th hole, causing him to take an 8 and thereby ruining his chances. It seldom occurs to golfers that to play a midiron well means that on 7 attempts with it, 7 good shots must result—not 6. The one shot going sour isn't evidence of an accident at all, but plain evidence of the player's inability to do the thing right 7 times out of 7 tries. It isn't the fault of the club, brother.

Hulbert Is Re-elected President of A. A. U.

Cincinnati, Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States at its convention today unanimously re-elected Murray Hulbert of New York as president for his fourth successive year, establishing a record for the holding of this office by one man.

Mr. Hulbert was nominated by Robert S. Weaver of Los Angeles, former president of the A. A. U.

The convention refused to reconsider its action in awarding the Olympic marathon tryouts to Boston In deference to Baltimore it was agreed however, that although the Boston race April 19, will be the official test, performances in all other established marathon events, such as that at Baltimore, and Detroit, will be taken into consideration in selecting the American team.

ACCEPT COLLEGE MARKS.

Recognition as new American records of two relay performances by the University of Southern California teams made last May at Los Angeles was granted after receipt today of telegraph advice that fifth-second watches were used. It was previously reported that tenth-second watches, which are outlawed, had been used.

The records are for the 880-yard and 800-meter relays and the time is the same for both, 1 minute 25 4-5 seconds.

The record committee declined to reconsider the claim for a new world broad jump record of 26 feet 2¼ inches by Dehart Hubbard, holder of the present world's record. Hubbard came to the convention today on crutches, due to an injured ankle, to appeal yesterday's action.

Hubbard was advised that the record could not be accepted because of the referee's report that his leap was made from a takeoff one inch higher than the landing pit.

The 1928 National basketball tournament was awarded to the Western Association and will be held in Kansas City probably in March.

FERRIS NEW SECRETARY.

Daniel J. Ferris of New York was elected secretary and treasurer to succeed Frederick W. Rubien, who resigned after serving thirteen years. The assistant secretary's salary was increased from $4,500 to $5,000.

Other officers elected were: First vice-president, Avery Brundage of Chicago; second vice-president, Fred L. Hoffman of Cincinnati; third vice-president, C. W. Streit, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., and fourth vice-president, Charles Brennan of Detroit.

Trustees elected were: Charles A. Dean, Chicago; John L. Taylor of Pittsburgh and Robert S. Weaver of Los Angeles.

The 1928 convention went to New York.

Athletics Booming at Princeton

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 22 (A.P.).—The byphrase of the Princeton Athletic Association for several years, "Athletics for all," has nearly become reality with nine out of every ten Tiger undergraduates engaged in some form of athletics this year, Dr. Joseph Raycroft, director of physical education, announced today.

Intramural sport has enjoyed even more popularity than last year, he said, when 205 teams competed for championships in various sports The list in 1926 included 30 baseball nines, 38 basketball quintets, 36 crews, 32 hockey teams and 35 touch football teams.

FREE THEATRE TICKETS
METROPOLITAN THEATRE
This Week
"The College Widow" and "Listen In"

FOR the 25 best letters received from Evening American readers stating why you prefer trading with the concerns whose advertisements appear in the "Who's Who" columns, will give a pair of tickets to the

METROPOLITAN THEATRE

Three of the winning letters will be published below each week and each of the 25 winners will be notified by mail.

Letters should not exceed 100 words, and should be addressed to the Classified Advertising Manager, Boston Evening American.

Dear Sir:—

It is a pleasure to tell what a nice place the Central Automobile Tire Company, of 119 Staniford Street, is to trade with.

When tires are purchased if ready cash is not on hand they will come to terms suitable to the purchaser. If a customer is touring in New England and is in need of a tire he does not have to buy from another company because in all the large cities you will find a Central Automobile Tire Company store.

Sincerely,
Walter Harrington,
75 Gaston St., Medford, Mass.

Gentlemen:—

From reading your "Who's Who" advertisements must say that I believe the advertisement of the "Lerner Dance Studio," has been very modestly written.

The main features of a good dancing school depend upon its faculty and equipment. In teaching the art of dancing properly it is not only necessary for the instructor to do the step and explain how it is done, but, in order to secure beneficial results, it is essential to impart a method of correcting the mistakes of the pupil.

This is admirably done by Mr. Lerner and his trained assistants.

The atmosphere of a studio has a great deal of bearing upon the pupil. At this school one finds a refined and cultured atmosphere, which invariably makes one more proficient.

Sincerely yours,
Joan Hatch,
116 East Canton St., Boston, Mass.

Dear Editor:—

The World Radio Company, of 349 Washington Street, is a very reliable concern, for I bought a radio there.

They give very liberal time payments and install all radios free of charge and they always have the latest styles, too.

Their radios are of the best quality at the lowest prices obtainable. My radio, which I bought there a year ago, has been very satisfactory indeed, I can get both local and long distance stations very clearly.

This company is also conveniently located. Patronize them and see.

Yours very sincerely,
Robert E. Blair,
247 Walden St., Cambridge, Mass.

In the Name of Boston

Maritime Association Again Takes Up Cudgels for the Port

New England manufacturers who ship their products to Europe by way of New York will await with interest the outcome of the hearing set for next Wednesday, before the United States Shipping Board at Washington, on a Boston Chamber of Commerce petition for such rates on Shipping Board vessels out of Boston as will consider the fact that this port is 200 miles nearer Europe than any other American port on the Atlantic.

Presented by Manager Frank S. Davis, the petition is that of the Maritime Association, that bureau of the Chamber whose province it is to "increase the business and improve the facilities of the Port of Boston and, in general, promote the maritime interests of New England."

Neither the Chamber nor the Maritime Associatiion is carrying on a "fight" against any other American port.

The Shipping Board is asked to establish ocean rates which, when added to the inland freight rate, shall be such that the THROUGH rate will be substantially the same by way of Boston as through Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk and Newport News.

As Manager Davis puts it:

"We urge that it is not fair to the Port of Boston that the through rate from Central Freight Association territory should be greater than the through rate via other North Atlantic ports WHEN BOSTON HAS THE ADVANTAGE OF A ROUTE SEVERAL HUNDRED MILES SHORTER AND WHERE THE TIME OF TRANSPORTATION IS MATERIALLY LESS THAN THROUGH THE OTHER PORTS.

"And we also urge that it is in the NATIONAL interest that ALL North American ports should be placed upon the basis of EQUAL through rates.

"Shippers in Central Freight Association territory and beyond should have the option at all times of shipping through ANY North Atlantic port when for any reason, whether they be port conditions, sailings of ships, requirements of finance or other reasons, they prefer to ship through one port or another—without being penalized by the payment of higher transportation rates.

"At times of emergency, whether in peace or war, it may become essential to utilize one port over the others, and therefore every port at normal times should have such a rate adjustment as will enable it to build port and shipping facilities so as to meet the emergency when it comes."

Should the Maritime Association win its point the FOREIGN shipping lines now coming into Boston will follow the lead of the Shipping Board.

Joint action of that character would greatly increase the business of the local port.

That there will be opposition may be taken for granted. Neither ports nor men like to let go of profitable special privilege.

Narrow Gauge

Going to Broaden?

Perhaps when the third day of December has come and gone, and with it the last opportunity of minority shareholders of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad Company to surrender their holdings at 137½, we shall know more of the plans and purposes of the new owners of the property.

The cruel but obviously silly rumor that the famous "Narrow Gauge" is to retire from the field apparently has found some believers in Winthrop, a village of 627 when the 3-feet-wide railroad came along but today one of Boston's smartest residential suburbs, with a population of 16,000.

The Narrow Gauge helped to MAKE Revere Beach, for when the railroad was born old "North Chelsea" was a community of but 1,603. The Revere of today is a city of 35,000.

Only 13 miles long, the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn is nevertheless an important public service. It cannot reasonably look for more business in its present territory because it gets all there is. Very likely its new owners have ambitious plans.

Meanwhile, there must be no worrying at the Highlands, Winthrop Beach or Ocean Spray. President Karl Adams, disposing of more than 5,000 shares of Narrow Gauge stock, first made certain that the interests of bondholders, shareholders and the public were "safeguarded."

It is more than likely that Narrow Gauge intends—or hopes, at least—to broaden out.

Smile and Live Long

Consider Chauncey Depew

Chauncey M. Depew, ninety-three years old, still speaks at political rallies and wants to address the Republican Convention in 1928.

Senator Depew has always eaten moderately, never eating anything immediately before making a public speech or any other considerable effort.

He also worries little, smiles a great deal, exercises moderately, but regularly.

If you eat little you do not poison your blood. If you SMILE a good deal and HATE not at all you don't poison your brain.

Senator Depew will probably address the Republican Convention in 1932, and perhaps in 1936. Long life to him.

Hats

Take This Man's Mind Off Troubles

Men are accustomed to drown their sorrows in various ways, never stopping to realize that most sorrows are excellent swimmers.

There is one man who has a novel system of pepping himself up when trouble camps on his trail. Instead of drinking bootleg liquor, he goes and buys himself a new hat.

He said the other day he can get more of an inspirational kick out of a new hat than out of a case of champagne. Every time trouble canters into view on his horizon, he hies him to the hat store.

Just to show the general trend and frequency of troublesome events in this man's life he now has two hundred and thirty-six hats.

NEWSPAPERS SEEK OUT THE FACTS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

AFTER a man marries his sweetie, whom he had thought perfection in his courting days, he begins to find fault with her.

We always criticize that with which we are very familiar.

Boarding school misses find fault with their excellent lunches simply because they have them every day, and boarding house guests always criticize the food. The food is all right, only they have it too regularly.

After a man has run his automobile awhile he finds that the new machine which he thought perfection has faults, and he begins to remark them.

So it is with newspapers. They are the most common thing in the world. We all read them every day and the tendency is to magnify their faults.

It is a common thing to hear people say that newspapers are unreliable and that you can't believe what you see in the papers. They seem to think there is a competition on the part of editors to suppress the truth.

As a matter of fact, newspapers do their utmost to secure facts. As Mr. Hughes said at the New Jersey Institute the other day, "You can believe what you see in the papers to an amazing degree. The newspaper industry is spending many millions of dollars a year—more than eight millions through the Associated Press alone—to gather the unadulterated facts about everything that happens everywhere and to transmit that information to the ends of the earth with the speed of light. Eighty thousand people are working feverishly day and night, Sunday and holidays, to make possible the more than 100,000 words of the news of the Associated Press."

There never was a time when newspaper editors were putting forth such intense efforts to publish the facts.

The newspaper, of course, depends for its support upon the advertiser, but its fundamental support is the reader. The advertiser doesn't get anything for his advertising unless he has a lot of readers, and circulation means advertising rates.

The average of truth is surprisingly high. So it is with the newspapers. The average of truth is very high and it is a good deal better to depend upon the newspapers for your information than hearsay and gossip which has a tendency to magnify the facts.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

HOW sweet the songs on singers' lips, where notes like silver chime, and every word like honey drips in melody sublime! Entranced, their listeners hear such song that brings them rare respite from all earth's weariness and wrong; makes all the world seem bright. And dear the songs that mothers croon beside white cibs at eve; the first faint stars, the crescent moon in webs of words they weave. But there is music sweeter still than words that heaven-ward wing; you hear it on a wind-swept hill, the song the tree-tops sing: Now, like an organ, strong and deep, the mighty voices rise; now murmuring of dreamless sleep come muted harmonies. Ah, there is music rarer still than any art can bring; it lingers on a wind-swept hill, the song the tree-tops sing!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ARE you often blue because you're "not getting anywhere?"

Do you look with envious eyes at more successful people and wonder how they do it?

"I work just as hard as they do," you say to yourself, "I'm on the go from morning till night. I'm so tired when the day is done that I can hardly drag myself to bed. And yet, I don't seem to accomplish anything. I wonder why it is?"

Perhaps a well-known Adding Machine Company can tell you why it is. Some time ago this company took stock. It took stock not of its machines, its office fixtures or bank assets, but of something much more valuable. IT TOOK STOCK OF ITS SALES PEOPLE'S TIME. How much of that time was being turned to profit. How much of it was being wasted? Here is the report rendered by their Research Division after most careful investigation:

Walking consumed 30 pc. of the time
Loafing consumed. 15 pc. of the time
Useless talking consumed .... 10 pc. of the time
Stock keeping consumed .... 15 pc. of the time
Cleaning consumed. 15 pc. of the time
Selling consumed... 15 pc. of the time

Have you ever thought of taking stock of YOUR time?

There's that housekeeping job of yours. It seemed like the most fascinating adventure in all the world when you and Jim were first married, didn't it. But after a year, things seemed to go stale. And now that you have the baby, you're growing more discouraged each day.

"My work's never done," you cry. You think bitterly of Jim's orderly office hours, Jim who isn't everlastingly nagged by unfinished work. And at night when Jim comes home you meet him with a burst of resentment. Why should everything be so easy for him and so hard for you?

Look back at that report—doesn't that tell you the secret?

What sort of a system have you for running your job?

What do you do when Jim leaves in the morning? Crawl into bed for another nap? Sit down over the coffee and finish reading the fifty-seventh chapter of "The Affianced Bride"? Call up Mabel and have a nice long phone talk? Or do you really dig in and get sixty seconds of actual results out of every minute?

Try this experiment tomorrow. Go through your day exactly as you would have gone through it if you had not read this article. Follow the same happy-go-lucky program that you have followed all the rest of the year. But, at the end of each hour make an accurate record of what you have done and the time consumed in doing it.

YOU'LL BE SURPRISED.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT BUOYANCY

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest.

"A friend of mine contends that it is easier to swim in deep water than in shoal, owing to the increased pressure from the depth. While I contend that the depth would have no effect on or near the surface where the swimmer would naturally be, for the depth would not increase the buoyancy there, buoyancy being a matter of density and not of depth, sea water being more buoyant than fresh. S. S."

YOU have won a victory without perceiving it. Increase of depth means increase of pressure, but the pressure is exerted in all directions, upward as well as downward. It is true that this produces some compression, or increase of density (and consequently of buoyancy) of the water at a great depth, but the increase is so slight that its practical effects are, for ordinary purposes, negligible.

At the depth of a mile the density of water is increased only about three quarters of one per cent. A swimmer at that depth in the sea would get the benefit of that slight increase of buoyancy; but at the surface the effect would be nil.

I know from early recollections of life near a swimmable river that a widespread impression exists that deep water is easier than shallow to swim in. The boys in my time almost universally believed that, but I think the reason was because as soon as they got "beyond their depth," and could no longer touch bottom with their toes, they swam the harder without being conscious of the extra effectiveness put into their strokes by glimpses of the yawning darkness beneath them.

I remember that I never knew that I really could swim, notwithstanding my practice in two or three feet of water, until once I suddenly found myself passing over the verge of a twenty-foot hole.

You have correctly stated the reason why it is easier to swim in salt water than in fresh; the salt water is heavier and consequently more buoyant. The buoyant force on any body is equal to the weight of the amount of water displaced by that body.
